B.C. Union Fined $10,000

—Barron, Victoria Daily Times.

3 Ironworkers In Contempt Too, Must Pay $3,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three union officials were each fined $3,000 and Local 97 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers (CLC) was fined $10,000 for contempt of court in the British Columbia Supreme Court today.

Mr. Justice A. M. Manson handed down fines of $3,000 to Fernand Leopold Whitmore, president of the union, and business agents Norman Eddison and Tom McGrath.

The judge ordered one year's imprisonment for each of the three men in default of payment.

The three men were summoned last week to show cause why they should not be cited for contempt after ironworkers failed to obey a court injunction ordering them to return to work on Vancouver's $23,000,000 Second Narrows Bridge.

Mr. Justice Manson ordered the fines paid in court despite an application by defence counsel Tom Berger to have them deferred until an appeal is launched.

The judge gave his decision after reading a 37-page judgment to a hushed courtroom.

"The union, by its officials, made no honest effort to honor the court order instructing the workmen to return to work," he said.

The union officials were ordered held in sheriff's custody until the fines have been paid. Defence counsel indicated this would be done later today.

Slight murmurs were heard from the packed public gallery when Mr. Justice Manson read his decision.

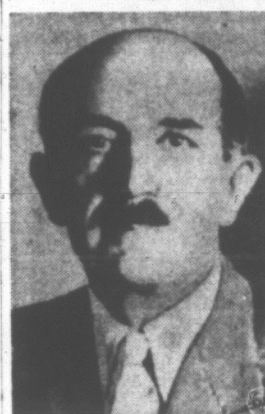

In his written judgment, the justice said certain press releases issued by Eddison were "made to deter workmen from returning to work."

The union "did nothing to explain the situation to the workmen" and a press release issued June 22 by Eddison was "highly inflammatory" because it was "mischievous."

Mr. Justice Manson said he did not take into consideration a poison-pen letter received last Saturday which threatened him with death if he found the men guilty of contempt. Contents of the letter were not released.

Mr. Manson today said it was not good practice to go out on strike and leave temporary falsework which could become dangerous. If the union contract did not include such a clause, then it was only "common sense" that work should have continued until it was safe to leave the unfinished bridge.

CYPRUS TRUCE BROKEN BY TERRORIST CHIEF

... a conspiracy

ATHENS (AP)—The agreement ending four years of bloody unrest on Cyprus was repudiated Wednesday by Lt.-Gen. George Grivas, leader of the underground war against British rule of the Mediterranean island.

Grivas said in a statement to reporters that "some quarters" are again trying to subjugate the island and that he wanted to warn the Cypriot people against a conspiracy plotted against them by "collaborators of the British and the Turks."

LOG STRIKE STALEMATE

Both Sides Hit Bennett Plan

Premier Bennett's suggestion Wednesday that a 10 to 12-cent hourly pay increase "would be fair" for B.C.'s striking coast loggers got only a cool reception with their leader, Joe Morris, today.

It was also frowned on by management.

Mr. Morris told The Times:

"There are other things beside wages we must bear in mind, the determination of which may affect the pay issue."

"We are prepared to go to the bargaining table any time there is a possibility of resolving this dispute, but we are not prepared to go to the bargaining table to talk about a pre-determined area of settlement."

Premier Bennett told a press conference in Vancouver that an increase of between 10 and 12 cents an hour for the loggers in a one-year contract "would be fair."

(The woodworkers originally asked for another 34 cents an hour, then reduced the demand to 21 cents.)

Goes Against Conciliation Award

The lumber companies offered another 12 cents, but over two years.

This offer Mr. Bennett described as "not enough," adding that the union's demands, too, were "unrealistic."

John Billings, president of Forest Industrial Relations, representing the 127 affected companies, said the premier's statement was "in striking contrast" to the report of a provincial conciliation board.

He said a conciliation board spent 10 days of study before issuing a majority recommendation for a 12-cent hourly boost over two years. The companies accepted the report, the union rejected it.

Mr. Billings added, "We are hesitant to accept replies made under pressure of newspaper interviews as being the considered policy of the government."

Meanwhile, it was learned that the strike vote among members of the International Woodworkers of America in June cost taxpayers $13,500.

The provincial cabinet passed an order-in-council authorizing a special warrant to pay the money.

The strike went into its 24th day today, with an estimated loss so far of nearly $50,000,000. No talks between the two sides are in sight or contemplated, officials said.

Britain 'Concerned' Over Strife in Laos

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today announced she has received reports that fighting has broken out between government and Communist forces in Laos.

A foreign office spokesman said Britain is "deeply concerned" about the situation in the Indo-Chinese state. He could give no estimates on the extent of the fighting.

The spokesman said the fighting erupted in the Sam Neua province in northern Laos close to the frontier of Communist North Viet Nam.

Pro-Communist forces were regrouped in this area under terms of the 1954 Geneva truce, which ended the war in Indo-China.

Communist China, with Soviet backing, has been demanding the revival of the three-power truce supervisory commission on grounds the danger of a major conflict in Laos is a threat to peace.

The commission, composed of Canadian, Polish and Indian representatives, suspended its work a year ago despite Communist protests.

CRACK TRAIN DERAILED

HUDSON, Wis. (AP)—The Chicago and North Western Railroad's crack "409" passenger train southbound from the twin cities was reported derailed this afternoon near Wilson Hill. About 100 persons were injured.

The sheriff's office broadcast a report to surrounding counties for "all available ambulances."

One theory is that the men were killed and the car blown to pieces in an explosion. In the past, Freedomites have been blamed for a number of explosions caused by homemade bombs in the Okanagan and Kootenay areas.

Another is that the men were murdered and the car hidden.

The mystery remains as great as ever.

DEADLOCK UNBROKEN AT GENEVA

GENEVA (UPI) — The Big Four foreign ministers met for nearly four hours over lunch today but remained as deadlocked as ever on the Berlin issue, just a week before the scheduled windup of their talks.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko lunched with France's Maurice Couve de Murville and Britain's Selwyn Lloyd at U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter's villa.

Afterwards, assistant secretary of state Andrew H. Berling announced that "the same differences on principle still exist."

ONTARIO SEATS

Federal By-Votes Set Oct. 2

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today announced that two federal byelections will be held Monday, Oct. 5.

Votes will be held in the Ontario constituencies of Russell and Hastings-Frontenac.

Hastings-Frontenac has been vacant since the sudden death March 17 of former external affairs minister Sidney Smith. Liberal J. Omer Gaur, who died in the Parliament Building March 4, was the member for Russell.

There are no other vacancies at present in the 265-seat Commons, which now has 207 Progressive Conservative members, 48 Liberals and eight CCF members.

Nehru Ousts Reds

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our Father in heaven, during these summer days we see Thy glory everywhere. The roses in our flower bed, the shade tree by the side of the road, the corn stalks in the field, the bluebird on the wing, the babbling brook in the meadow, the cows on the hillside, all speak of Thy power and glory; for Thou hast created them all. Help us to live this day that we too may reflect Thy glory; in Jesus' name. Amen.

ISSUES TOO COMPLEX

'NOW IS TIME FOR SUMMIT'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev said Wednesday night that "the time has come" for the Big Four to hold a summit meeting.

The official Tass agency, reporting a speech made by Khrushchev in Dnepropetrovsk, quoted him as saying that the foreign ministers in Geneva "are coming up against big difficulties because they have to deal with complex unsettled international issues."

There were also peaceful references to a Berlin settlement scattered throughout the speech. At one point he said: "Neither the Soviet Union nor the Western powers wish to upset the present way of life of the people of West Berlin. If the people of West Berlin wish to live under capitalism let them. It is their own domestic matter. We do not intend to interfere."

He did not comment directly on the impending breakup of the deadlocked Geneva talks.

"These questions are more amenable to discussion, and especially to solution, by the heads of government, because the heads of government have vast experience of settling international problems," Khrushchev said.

He also told him that, if the West German militarists started a war, our retaliatory blows will in a few hours wipe out West Germany and the other countries where there are military bases spearheaded against the Soviet Union.

Khrushchev also revealed some details of his private talks six days ago with Vice-President Richard M. Nixon.

He said Russia wants a Berlin settlement to avert the danger of a war which he said West Germany might start.

"I frankly and bluntly expressed our views on all these matters," to Mr. Nixon, Khrushchev said.

"I also told him that, if the West German militarists started a war, our retaliatory blows will in a few hours wipe out West Germany and the other countries where there are military bases spearheaded against the Soviet Union."

Herbert Klein, Nixon's press spokesman, said he believes Nixon referred to the hope that a way would be found for a summit conference. But the drift among Nixon's followers seemed to be towards recommending a visit by Khrushchev to Washington.

It was Nixon's next to last day in this Siberian industrial complex of 600,000 and perhaps the one in which he received the warmest welcome.

He did not pretend that personal contact would solve the basic problems of the world," he said and added briefly later:

"This trip of mine will be followed by others including contact between other leaders."

He also told him that, if the West German militarists started a war, our retaliatory blows will in a few hours wipe out West Germany and the other countries where there are military bases spearheaded against the Soviet Union."

The bodies were discovered by three children, two of them Townsend children, this morning.

Fishing Strike Said 'Guaranteed'

Current stoppage of work in B.C.'s huge fishing industry was "guaranteed" by fish union leader Homer Stevens last February, the president of B.C. Fisheries Association has charged.

James Sinclair in a radio address said Stevens told him in February that unless the association met all the union demands, a strike would follow.

"At a later meeting, well before the government-supervised strike votes had been taken, he boasted to us, 'I can guarantee a strike.'"

"Of course, he needed the formality of a strike vote, but that was no problem to a man skilled in Communist Party organization and propaganda."

Today Sinclair told the Times the association was "calling all our big ships in and storing nets away for the winter."

"We are convinced this will be a long strike," he said. "We are certainly not budging from our position. The housewife Continued on Page 2

Queen Goes Down on Farm

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip today went down to the farm and tiffen to the races—both for the second time on their soon-to-end Canadian tour.

Philip wound up the trip to Willard Prowse's, 100-acre mixed farm at Brackley, near here, by leaving the rest of the royal party and going off with a small boy to see his coin collection.

Later they went to the sulky races, a major sport on Prince Edward Island.

Malarkoff's disappearance was first reported to police by his wife Mary after he had been missing for a week. She was not particularly worried—but as time went by her anxiety grew.

Police began an investigation. It's still going on.

Malarkoff had been working at Ellison and Kalodinin and Zarubin at Glenmore. Both are tree fruit areas to the north of Kelowna. They were snowbound at the time of the disappearance.

The first problem was that of the car. Police knew that while it might be fairly easy to hide away bodies indefinitely, disposal of a car wasn't a simple matter. But it has never been found.

Duck Lake and Woods Lake, on Highway 97 just north of Kelowna, were searched in the belief that Malarkoff may have driven off the highway.

But both were frozen and it was obvious no car had gone into either lake.

An intensive search for the men and the car went on over the years.

Some policemen involved in the investigation say it is noticeable that the Sons of Freedom never speak of the disappearance.

One theory is that the men were killed and the car blown to pieces in an explosion. In the past, Freedomites have been blamed for a number of explosions caused by homemade bombs in the Okanagan and Kootenay areas.

Another is that the men were murdered and the car hidden.

The mystery remains as great as ever.

'OPEN BOOK' ORDER FOR U.S. COMMUNISTS

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Court of Appeals ruled today that the U.S. Communist party is under foreign domination and must register its membership with the government, open its books for inspection and label its propaganda.

The 2 to 1 decision upheld the findings of the subversive activities control board and marked another step in a legal battle which has been going on for nearly nine years.

The ruling undoubtedly will be appealed to the Supreme Court by the Communist party.

—There is nothing safe a drinking motorist can take which will fool a police breath test.

There is one bright note. The number of women drinkers has dropped 8 per cent since the end of Second World War.

Gas 'Dividends' Ruled Tax-Free in Alberta

OTTAWA (CP)—Government legal officers are considering whether to appeal a ruling that income tax should not have been levied on the Alberta government's oil and gas royalty dividend payments of 1957 and 1958.

"We are trying to come to a decision as quickly as possible," a revenue department official said.

A judgment by the income tax appeal board, signed by board member R. S. W. Fordham, said the payments were not, in fact, dividends. They were "more in the nature of a gift or windfall, albeit a small one, that was as surprising as it was unexpected."

His decision was made on an appeal by Mrs. Katherine Irene German, wife of a Calgary lawyer, against the government's claim for $6.60 in income tax against her $20 payment received in 1957.

An unknown number of Albertans have already paid income tax on the payments. The revenue department official said that if Mr. Fordham's judgment stands, these persons can get back the tax paid, but will have to apply in writing within four years from the end of the year in which the money was received.

The Alberta "dividend" was a distribution of one-third of the provincial government's revenues from royalties on oil and gas. The dividend fund was $11,000,000 in 1957 and $10,000,000 in 1958, and individual payments were $20 and $17.50 in the two years.

They were made to Canadian citizens or British subjects, 21 years of age or older, who had lived in Alberta for at least 10 years and for the two years preceding the payments.

The payments were discontinued after 1958.

In his judgment, Mr. Fordham said the revenue department in seeking to levy income tax relied heavily on the fact that the Alberta legislation called the payments as "dividend." The federal Income Tax Act stipulates that dividends are taxable income.

"Nevertheless," Mr. Fordham wrote, "termining a certain sum a 'dividend' does not make it such."

LEGAL DEFINITION

He referred to a legal definition that dividend means a share of profits allocated to the holders of shares in a company.

"A provincial government cannot be said to be in a business," he said. "The residents of Alberta had nothing to do with, and no say in, the policy pursued by the provincial government regarding oil and gas properties. There was no contractual arrangement between residents and government, and the former possessed no individual rights whatever in what the government might glean from this policy."

Money to Boost Sports Queried

Greater Victoria Sports Council will be invited by the inter-municipal committee to outline what kind of help municipal councils can give to the development of local athletes.

The decision to have the meeting was made by inter-municipal committee Wednesday despite opposition of Saanich Coun. Joseph Casey who said the result would be requested for taxpayers' money to subsidize phony amateurs.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow, who won the day, argued that councils should take a lead in promoting the development of "Victoria-bred boys." He said he was not advocating assistance for professional sports or suggesting that money should be spent on importing athletes.

DELINQUENCY FOE

"Victoria was known in the past for its outstanding athletes but today there just don't seem to be many developing," he said. The meeting with the sports council could produce a sports-encouragement plan "that might do away with some of our juvenile delinquency and bring in a new era of sports."

He said one of the areas where encouragement could help would be in school athletic events. Greater interest could be created in sports by encouraging school athletes and staging more competitions than at present.

"I foresee nothing but grief because it costs money to develop athletes today," countered Coun. Casey. "Let's face it, there's very little amateur sports today. They sell themselves for 'X' dollars."

"It's not a question of money," retorted Ald. Edgelow. "You can't pay a young fellow to take an interest in athletics. It's in the blood. We should encourage that."

... FISHING

Meanwhile, some six or seven trollers left Fisherman's Wharf early today on a fishing trip made in defiance of union instructions. They plan to sell their catches at U.S. ports.

The trollers—some 2,400 along the coast—are not directly affected by the strike, but are prevented from selling their fish in B.C. because the cannery workers walked off the job Wednesday.

A FAWU official said today the union had about $30,000 to $40,000 in its strike fund.

"This is not a lot of money," he said, "but we shall manage to last-out by selling fish directly to the public. Quite a large amount has already been disposed of in this way."

The union's Victoria strike committee will sell fresh fish here within a few days; the proceeds to boost the union strike fund.

Life Unlimited—In a Test Tube

TORONTO (CP)—A world-famous Montreal medical scientist says there is no theoretical limit to human life expectancy. Dr. Hans Selye, noted for his studies of the effects of stress on health, relates in an article in Maclean's Magazine that body tissue from rats has been kept alive and healthy under laboratory conditions for a period equivalent to 1,000 years in the human scale.

"If the causes of aging can be found, there is no good medical reason to believe that it will not be possible for science to find some practical way of slowing the process down or even bringing it to a standstill," he says in the article.

"In the terms I am using here aging can be regarded as a disease. Like any other disease, it is probably preventable or curable."

"And since tissue is technically immortal, the 'normal' life span of a human being may be described as any number of years the medical science of the moment is capable of making it — seventy years, a hundred, two hundred, perhaps more."

... rats point way

"There is no theoretical limit, although by this I do not mean to suggest immortality for mankind."

"There will always be a practical limit set by imperfect medical skill and knowledge, and the risky but unavoidable adventure of living outside a test tube."

The 52-year-old Vienna-born director of the University of Montreal's Institute of Experimental Medicine and Surgery describes current experiments he and colleagues are making into the secrets of life.

In one, a glass tube inserted in the body of a rat develops a tiny cord which scientists are studying as a new form of life—a cord with a blood-supply system and connective tissues.

The cord may turn out to be an indispensable tool in deciphering the processes of life," Dr. Selye says. "It may turn out to be a medical curiosity with no larger significance at all."

The average human life expectancy has increased to 70 from 50 years since 1900, he says. Most of the increase has been the result of basic medical research.

Blasts Rock Towns

PORTLAND, Conn. (AP)—Exploding chemicals shook two communities today and lit up the pre-dawn sky as flames destroyed a chemical distributing depot.

Thirteen tanks of industrial chemicals exploded in the blaze, which a fire official said apparently began accidentally.

No deaths or injuries were reported.

The biggest blast, which knocked sleepers from their beds here and in Middletown, across the Connecticut River, came when a 13,000-gallon tank of alcohol went off.

The flames at times burst like rocket blasts 500 feet high. Flaming debris was scattered over a wide area.

FAMILIES EVACUATED

Between 20 and 100 families were evacuated temporarily from their homes, a few aged persons in ambulances.

Firemen were kept from the blaze by the flames and intense heat and unable to examine the scene.

C. Albert Mugford, manager of Philipps Brothers Chemical Company, estimated the loss at approximately $500,000.

A scrap yard across the street also was wrecked by the fire and one of the owners said the loss would run to $30,000 or $40,000.

Cave Collapse Fatal

SILVER CITY, N.M. (AP)—Workmen have recovered the bodies of two youths killed when a part of the top of a cave entrance collapsed on them as they dug for Indian relics. Smothered and crushed Monday by the falling rocks and dirt were Johnny Chavez, 16, and Matias Ynostrosa, 22.

U.K. STARTING SOON ON FIRST SATELLITE

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain will begin work on its first space satellite within six months, it was announced Wednesday.

Sir Edward Bullard, chairman of the government appointed steering group on space research, told a press conference the satellite will be put into orbit at the end of two years, using American three-stage solid fuel rockets.

Britain will be spending between £100,000 and £200,000 a year on its part of the experiment, Bullard said, while the United States will pay for the rocket and launching costs.

The satellite is expected to have a 150-pound payload, and go into orbit at 300 miles.

Government spokesman Lord Hailsham told the House of Lords that Britain plans to "thumb a ride" on American space rockets.

CASE OF THE BLONDE MODEL Jury Says 'Bag' Death Accident

OTTAWA (CP)—The plastic bag death of Joan de Marcy, beautiful young modeling school proprietor, was accidental, a coroner's jury ruled Wednesday night.

The five-man jury deliberated for an hour and 55 minutes.

Mrs. de Marcy, a lovely blonde 20-year-old, was found on the floor of her living room early June 19, a plastic bag wrapped around her head.

Her French-born husband, Hubert, a former University of British Columbia professor, found the body on returning to the de Marcy home in the Glebe district of Ottawa from a business trip to Toronto.

DEEPLY IN LOVE

On the witness stand Wednesday night, Mr. de Marcy, now an insurance manager, testified that he had been deeply in love with his wife.

His evidence appeared to conflict with that of the woman's mother, Mrs. Bensen Kincaid of Scarborough, Ont., who had represented the marriage as wracked by quarrels and misunderstandings.

The Sorbonne and Cambridge-educated de Marcy, impeccably dressed in a light-grey suit, was on the verge of tears at one stage as he answered the questions of Assistant Crown Attorney Dan Chilcott in heavily accented English.

Earlier testimony showed that two male friends were with Mrs. de Marcy at different times on the night of June 18. One of them, Fred Farrance, a magazine salesman, testified she had spoken of committing suicide because the other friend, radio announcer Mac Lipson, could not meet her next morning for breakfast.

Lipson testified that his relationship with Mrs. de Marcy was "strictly commercial—and I resent any suggestion that it was otherwise."

Farrance said he was "fond" of the young model, but that was as far as their relationship went.

RAMMED 'Elizabeth' Repaired, Sails Today

NEW YORK (AP)—The Queen Elizabeth, world's largest luxury liner, was set to sail again today. Repairs were being rushed on her hull following a collision with a freighter during patchy fog in New York harbor.

There were no injuries to passengers or crew aboard the outbound 83,000-ton Queen and the inbound 10,460-ton American Hunter. The ships came together about 3.30 p.m. EDT Wednesday near the entrance to Ambrose Channel about 1½ miles off Coney Island.

Both vessels were damaged above the water line. Harbor pilots were at the helm of each.

BROUGHT BACK BY TUGS

Repair crews went to work on the three-foot hole in the starboard bow of the liner after tugs brought her back to Pier 9 where she had upped anchor just six hours earlier.

The impact was felt only as a dull thud aboard the Elizabeth, commanded by Capt. H. G. Morris, commodore of the Cunard Line. Few of the ship's 1,959 passengers and crew of 1,290 knew what had happened.

The American Hunter, arriving from Southampton under the command of Capt. George Walker, suffered a two-foot crack in her bow. She carried a crew of 50 and six passengers.

Red Crackdown Stiffens

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Iraqi Premier Abdel Karim Kassem carried his campaign to contain communism in his country two steps farther Wednesday.

Without mentioning them by name, he accused the Reds of planning simultaneous uprisings in all major Iraqi cities on July 14, the anniversary of the Iraqi revolution. The only trouble developed in Kirkuk, on July 15, and the army put it down.

Kassem's government also ordered members of the Popular Resistance Force, a Communist-dominated militia, not to wear their uniforms and said the force's deputies had been abolished.

Baghdad Radio said Kassem told a press conference in the Iraqi capital that the revolt was limited to Kirkuk only because the army was able to suppress trouble elsewhere before it could begin.

"As from today, no such uprising will occur again," the premier said. "We have enough force to crush them all."

Kassem said he is fighting "particular individuals guilty of particular action" and not any political party as such. But he made clear the Communists were his target.

Owners of some newspapers that continue their present policies will be brought to justice, he said.

He also told newspaper editors to cease attacking Western countries.

The Common Market

THE COMMON MARKET established by France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg may seem remote from British Columbia and of little concern to our prosperity. In fact, if it operates as it seems likely to operate, it could directly damage our great export industries, particularly our forest industry, a huge seller of pulp in Europe.

The Common Market may be expected to seek self-sufficiency so far as possible, with common tariffs against the world and, with common importing policies, will buy where it can buy at the lowest price—that is to say from its European neighbors in the case of many goods.

Those neighbors are now preparing to complicate the problem for our exporters by forming a second free-trade zone among themselves. Britain, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Switzerland, Austria and Portugal, unable to join the other group, are now negotiating an economic union of their own.

The tariffs between the participating seven nations will be systematically reduced by stages but it is probable that their joint tariffs against the world will be maintained or increased. Even if they are not increased the purpose of discrimination against overseas exporters like Canada is implicit in both the European trading schemes. That would mean a reduction in our exports to Britain and Europe generally and our further dependence on the single American market.

Mr. Fleming expressed deep alarm at these prospects in his last budget speech but his Government has done nothing to forestall them. On the contrary, it raised Canadian tariffs against British and European textiles, a major item of trans-Atlantic trade, and recently restricted textiles from Japan, a large and growing Canadian market. Such policies are calculated to discourage Europe's and Japan's trade with Canada and drive our customers away.

The only Canadian statesman who seems to have fully understood these dangers and proposed a method of meeting them is Mr. Pearson who, as early as July 18, 1958, laid down a clear policy, little noted at the time but lately repeated.

"I do not know," he said, "any more important or any greater vision, apart from building up our own country, than trying to build up the Atlantic area as a free-trade, politically co-operating and defence area. Surely there could be no more important Canadian policy at this time, political or economical, than to take the initiative in that regard."

NATO has been the sheet anchor of our defence and our security in the last ten years but NATO is not going to survive. I am afraid, merely as a military alliance. The free world countries, especially the Atlantic countries, must get closer together economically or politically or they are going to fall apart.

In other words, Canada should not and, of course, cannot seek to prevent the establishment of the European free-trade areas but should join them along with the United States. This could not be accomplished in one move. It would probably take a good many years, just as the European areas are gradually eliminating tariffs between their participants over a period of 15 years. But the time to start is now, before the trade patterns of the North Atlantic freeze in moulds damaging to Canada.

Britain already has urged this policy upon Canada, offering to negotiate a free-trade agreement with us. That offer, made a year ago, produced from the Canadian Government a stunned and embarrassed silence. Thus rebuffed in Ottawa, Britain very naturally turned to its European neighbors who were willing to do business and who are now setting up their own free-trade areas from which Canada is excluded as a member.

This will not mean that we cannot sell goods in those areas but it will almost certainly mean that we shall sell less goods there. Among the chief casualties will be British Columbia, its industries and workers.

Answer for the Unanswerable

THE BRITISH GOVERNMENT has beaten down Labor opposition to establish its policy on Nyasaland—Mr. Macmillan's solution for the thorny problem of the Central African Federation. Few recent parliamentary wrangles have engendered the bitterness of the current dispute, or furnished Government opponents with more ammunition for the general election expected next October.

In putting down native uprisings in Nyasaland, Britain has been placed in the position of thwarting racial and nationalistic aspirations in the colony. Several unfortunate outbreaks have produced dead and injured and resulted in numerous arrests of natives. But, as an investigating commission put it, in a state of emergency the Nyasaland Government "had to act or abdicate." The repercussions of that action have been severe.

The Central African Federation was formed in 1953 as a transitional phase in development toward dominion status. The vast area embraces Nyasaland, with 2,750,000 negroes and 9,000 whites, and Northern Rhodesia, with 2,250,000 Africans and 72,000 whites. Obviously, under such racial conditions, self-government would be difficult. The native demand for this, however, has been so urgent that rioting has broken out on several occasions.

The British Government's problem has been to find a constitutional formula that will satisfy both whites and Negroes, preserving security for the small minority and giving the largely undeveloped native population a form of democratic administration which it could handle.

Now the Macmillan plan to set up a 26-man commission to study the constitutional situation and provide the basis for a decision next year, has been adopted. The commission will have only five African members—a sore point with the Labor opposition.

Whatever decision is made, there will be dissension both in London and in Africa. It appears to be one of the unanswerable problems of rapid political growth which beset the world today and which can become political bombshells, as various French governments, for instance, have found out.

One to Another

AT NO PERIOD IN HISTORY has there been a larger number of human beings uprooted from their normal habitation and driven into exile of one kind or another. Since 1945 some 50 million persons have been displaced, forced to move from their native lands and in most cases leave their possessions behind them.

On such a scale, refugee relief is a global problem; it cannot be solved on a piecemeal basis although many unrelated efforts have been made to provide help for these unfortunate people. Chief among these agencies have been several under United Nations auspices. The governments of nearly 40 countries have carried on relief programs of one sort or another, but not often in co-ordination. The number of non-governmental, voluntary organizations engaged in refugee work runs into the hundreds. The Red Cross, many churches, service clubs, CARE, trade unions, private and public foundations—these are among the supporters of the principle that every man is his brother's keeper.

But obviously under such conditions there is bound to be overlapping of effort and a certain amount of confusion. A more efficient job could be done with co-operation, and this belief has led to the institution of the World Refugee Year, which is now under way.

After months of preparation an International Committee has been formed and a world-wide effort will be made to solve or mitigate the refugee problem in a united drive. It is a task that touches almost every part of the world, transcending mere political or economic considerations and launching a humanitarian crusade in a world that has never needed it more urgently.

THE LATEST MILITARY DE- vice is a supersensitive radar which can spot a soldier crawling on the ground two miles away. For larger objects, such as a tank or a jeep, the operational distance is 10 miles.

Army experts claim this electronic invention is so accurate that it can distinguish between a man and a woman walking more than 600 yards away in the dark or fog—by means, we presume, of an audio attachment.

'I'm Not That Kind of a Mountain Fighter'

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

A Deeply Disturbing Theory

ANDREI Gromyko's behavior at Geneva offers added proof of a deeply disturbing theory recently developed by the American intelligence analysts. The theory is, in brief, that Nikita Khrushchev is now inflated with arrogance, because of a genuine belief in Soviet military superiority. Only the least rigid minds in the Pentagon accept this theory, because the great majority of U.S. military leaders have their eyes wholly fixed on the vast power of the U.S. Strategic Air Command. They cannot see further than SAC's magnificent striking force, with its back-up of enough H-bombs to destroy the whole world.

Alsop

One of the ugly facts they refuse to face is SAC's heavy operational dependence on overseas bases. Now that those bases are covered by Soviet medium range ballistic missiles, at least half SAC's striking power has been effectively neutralized.

Great Change

This fairly recent and very great change in the military situation must be the immediate cause of the change in Khrushchev. But even after neutralizing half of SAC's striking power, how can Khrushchev face the terrible remainder with apparent confidence?

According to the analysts, the answer lies in a sharp difference between the Soviet and American opinions of the value of air defence.

Dominant U.S. Air Force thinking has always downgraded air defence in an extraordinary manner. The former Chief of Air Staff, Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, on one occasion actually charged that pressures for construction of an American air defence system originated in an evil Communist plot.

The Soviet military men, in contrast, plainly set a high value on air defence. The proof is the remarkable fact that an average of about one-fifth of the huge Soviet military budget has been devoted to this purpose in all the years since the end of the last war.

These enormous outlays have included some we should regard as relatively foolish, such as the massive investment in the anti-aircraft artillery which is still thickly emplaced around the major Russian cities. Yet the Soviet Air Defense Command, or PVO, is an exceptionally formidable military instrument as it exists today.

Warning System

Its far-spreading warning system is equipped with radars rather better than those in the American DEW-line. Its fighter defence units comprise 8,000 or more Mig-17s, Mig-21s, and Flashlight night fighters, the Flashlights carrying heat-seeking missiles like the American side-winders.

At this season, also, the day-fighters that make up more than two-thirds of the force, are easily usable at night, since a fighter vectored above the ground loom can see its target in the short, pale summer nights of Russia.

The outer defences provided by the fighter squadrons are in turn backed up, around the more vital targets like Moscow, by brilliant long range defence complexes comprising anti-aircraft ballistic missiles comparable to our Nike Hercules, some with probably nuclear war heads, plus a portion of the fighters and the A.A. artillery above mentioned.

Finally, the whole command is absolutely unified, as ours is not. Most significantly, the PVO's Commanding General is an artilleryman, Marshal S. S. Baryusov, from whom the Commander of the air units, Col. Gen. Klimov, takes his orders.

The training of Marshal Baryusov is significant, simply because no artilleryman in any army has ever been known to admit that he could not shoot down any airplane that flew. In addition, there is the sheer weight of military investment for which Marshal Baryusov is personally responsible.

It is not easy to imagine a Soviet officer whose command has absorbed one-fifth of the entire Soviet defence budget admitting that the whole investment was a footling waste. After so much expenditure, he really cannot say that his command is incapable of doing its assigned job. Especially after the neutralization of SAC's overseas bases, Marshal Baryusov really must claim that he can blunt any SAC strike to the required degree.

Move Likely

Add that Khrushchev is far more likely to accept Marshal Baryusov's opinion than the opinion of Gen. Curtis LeMay. Add further that Khrushchev was quite possibly assigned responsibility for missile development, when Stalin made Lavrenti Beria atomic czar and Georgiy Malenkov Chairman of the Air Policy Commission.

Add finally that this assignment, if it took place, would have distorted Khrushchev's estimate of SAC just as much as Baryusov's artillery training.

The sum of the addition shows the sources of the arrogance Khrushchev is displaying.

HANDEL'S CHARM
Handel must have been likeable. When he was young the Italian nobility made a fuss of him. Then the German nobility. Then the English nobility. Queen Anne gave him a pension when he was very young, and later George I did likewise. He wasn't a smooth courtier. His manners were sometimes rough; he wasn't above swearing and shouting; he ate greedily. But there was something irresistible about him and his music.

LONDON LETTER:

But Who Will Speak First?

WE have been asked to say nothing. And to wait. But patient though we often are, and sometimes have to be when the ink in running low, there are certain matters of public interest too urgent to be withheld from readers indefinitely. This, surely, is one of them, and after the most careful consideration we have decided to tell what we know of the Conversing Travellers' Association.

In fact this is not much, since the association's Hon. Sec. has informed us that his committee is "not interested in supplying you with any information about C.T.A., as we plan to advertise our aims upon a television channel, thus avoiding any further unchecked reports by the seemingly unchecked press."

We have, nevertheless, uncovered what appear to be two facts about the association: that it was formed at Letchworth in 1950, and that it now has about a thousand members indulging, as a matter of principle, "in topical conversation with strangers of either sex to relieve boredom when travelling."

The association badge, with a copy of the rule book, costs five shillings a year. Once the badge—silver lettering on a blue background—is recognized, members are at liberty to start talking. The rules say that the conversation is to be "discontinued" at the end of the journey "unless by mutual consent"—a saving clause, if ever there was one.

This, at present, is all we know. Perhaps in time the Hon. Sec. will relent and answer some of the many questions we are bursting to ask. Meanwhile we are mildly mollified by the fact that this official, in his otherwise unforthcoming letter, did promise to include our letter in the association's Great Domesday Book, "which should afford a lasting record that you were interested in how mankind's evolution was making out in this social direction."

Restoration In Jerusalem

Two holy places in old Jerusalem, the Church of the Holy Sepulchre and the "Dome of the Rock" are at last undergoing long-needed restoration work. The former has been disfigured by supports for some years, but now, apparently, the officials of the Latin, Greek Orthodox, and Armenian Orthodox communities have finally reached agreement about repair work.

A correspondent who visited Jerusalem a year or two ago was agreeably surprised to find it was not as commercialized as he had been led to expect, though it was more exploited in this way than the Church of the Holy Nativity, out at Bethlehem.

The great church actually enshrines two holy places—the hill of Calvary where the crucifixion took place, and the tomb where the body of Jesus was laid. Both places were of course outside the city wall at the time of Pontius Pilate, but the old city has been extended many times since the walls have been thrust out.

There is still, however, a rival tomb—commonly known as Gordon's Calvary—outside the present city walls, on the way to the Anglican cathedral of St. George, beyond the Damascus Gate.

Most scholars are agreed that the shrine within the Church of the Holy Sepulchre is the right one, although the other looks more like the Sunday School illustrations; it is still a garden, with a well, and olive and cypress trees, and a typical tomb of the time hewn out of the great rock there.

The Dome of the Rock

"The Dome of the Rock," not far away, which stands on the site of the old Temple, is sacred to Christians (for it was in the great courtyard here that Jesus often walked and taught), Jews and Moslems.

It is a most impressive building with its great dome (now to receive much needed support) erected over a vast natural rock from which, the Moslems claim, the prophet Mohammed ascended into heaven; also where, according to the Jews, Abraham offered up the ram caught in a thicket in the stead of his son Isaac, miraculously spared at the last moment.

It is now a Moslem mosque, and one imagines there should be no lack of funds for the restoration work here. Presumably generous contributions will be forthcoming from the multi-rich Moslem rulers and sheikhs of the Arab kingdoms in the Middle East—and beyond.

As Our Readers See It

Sewage Problem

I am writing in regard to sanitary conditions in the Village of Lake Cowichan. They are most deplorable. There are open drain ditches with from 12 to 20 houses draining into them, the stench is terrible, it would chase a dog off a gut wagon.

There are from 12 to 14 inches of sewage water in them. Two weeks or so ago a 14-month-old baby fell into it head first and it was just an Act of God that she wasn't drowned. Her mother just rescued her in time.

I have been trying for the last few days to have something done about it but with little or no success. The health authorities in Victoria have been contacted with no results as yet.

I also called Mr. Strachan, the M.P. for this district, with no results as yet. I told him that it was urgent, as the health of the village is at stake. If there was an election in the near future he would be here on the double.

There are three large sawmills, one located at Mesachie Lake, one at Honey-moon Bay, and a third at Youbou, with several logging camps, and all that sewage goes into Lake Cowichan, also a swimming hole establishment just at the head of the river.

All Cowichan Lake sewage goes, some direct from the toilets without a septic tank, some have tanks or a hole in the ground.

There is a lake called Beaver Lake, southwest of this burg, and I believe that it is mostly fed by springs and creeks from the hills and should be good water. At least it would not be contaminated and could be got here by gravity and would have at least a 40 or 50 ft. fall to the highest point in the village.

For a clean and sanitary town,
NEIL McDONALD,

Higher Love

The U.S. is celebrating Captive Nations Week and my heart aches for the mothers of the Doughboy children held captive in our own fair land. It's a crime against our so-called Christianity, Christ's dying words on the Cross were, Mother, behold thy Son; and to his disciple, Son, behold thy Mother.

Release these children, you Social Credit Government, at least for the few weeks left of the summer. Mother love is higher than anything on earth.

A Bit More Joy

Your beautiful little city has provided an added incentive to every visiting American in that delightfully different variety production which is called, I believe, the "Smile" show. It is, indeed, the type of entertainment for which television could easily be a poor substitute.

We returned recently from Victoria, after having spent an extra day. My wife and I felt that we simply had to see Mr. Gosley's show again, so that we could carry with us, and retain for a little time, the fresh and whimsical gaiety which is so nicely projected to the audience.

The incredible Magic of Carl and Lottie Hemeon wove a delightful fantasy throughout the performance. (Who doesn't thrill to a fine magician?) The lovely voice of Irene Henderson sparked a series of typically English songs which held the audience enthralled. Jerry Gosley, himself (I believe he produced the entire show), does a few characterizations, which literally transported us to London Town.

In fact, the entire cast—and I must mention the two perky little teenage dancers—delivered two hours of the finest entertainment we have seen for many moons.

Perhaps we are starved for live entertainment. I am not denying this; but the city of Victoria may be justly proud of the efforts which have, obviously gone into the "Smile" show. I would recommend a visit to the Langham Court Theatre to those of all ages. It will bring a bit more joy to anyone.

No Killer-Hawk

I was shocked at your writings in the July 18 paper. I wonder why you were so determined to take so much away from the royal visit.

You are supposed to be the conscience of the people and present the news in an unbiased fashion. The writup on the gift of the falcons was not only misleading but incorrect, sickening and disgusting.

I do not believe that any scientist would headline a falcon as a killer-hawk. (The government has seen fit to protect these beauties of nature).

Why do you feel justified in allowing so much space for the opinions of one man?

Is it your policy to deal in sensationalism? I feel very bad to think that one of our B.C. papers would lower its standards of ethics to such a degree as to publish such rubbish.

MRS. CHRISTINE FIELDHOUSE.

Impartial Tribunal

It is refreshing to see a politician taking a stand on behalf of the long-suffering public. J. A. A. George at a Nelson meeting stated: "No longer are strikes the concern solely of labor and management, the most adverse effects are passed on to the general public—you, me, the man next door, the strikers and their families."

Labor has definitely lost the confidence of the general public; put to a secret ballot without the influence of leaders' pressure the union members themselves would vote against their present tactics as not in the best interests of either themselves, the people and Canada itself.

Without an impartial tribunal of trained minds to get at the facts there can be no enlightenment and no settlement of the eternal problem of strikes and the existing whirl of propaganda and prejudice. The writer has for years persistently advocated the use of our courts in labor disputes realizing that it was the only way out in fairness to all concerned.

Our politicians must act immediately both federally and provincially in this regard or fail in their duty to those who elected them.

FRANK H. PARTRIDGE,

In Parting

As a third-generation Canadian I am presumptuous enough to assume that the general Canadian's feelings can be found in my following attempt at rhyme:

We have not the old traditions prompting forth outstanding zeal. But we have a true affection which we truly deeply feel.

And with true respectful honor we appreciate your tour. As Canadians we assure you, be we rich or be we poor.

Knowing that your gracious visit heavy schedules did entail. We appreciate most fully how your kindness did prevail.

So in parting, Gracious Lady, Lovely Queen, devout and true. Our great wish, God Bless Your family, long and happy life ensue.

BUCK O'NEILL,
317 Harbinger.

The Exhibit

THE museum guide led his listeners along the marbled passage to the Twentieth Century Hall.

"Shall we see the whole of it?" asked the earnest teacher who'd been taking conscientious notes throughout the tour.

"No," he said. "It's too big for that. Instead, we feature a special section each week. This week's special is the Barbecue Fad of the 1950's after business got hold of it and made it into another form of keeping up with the Joneses."

"I've read about that," said a woman with upturned glasses. "Gracious Living, wasn't it?"

"Got her livings mixed," muttered a stubby little man. "Back in the 1950's, Canadians had Gracious Living, Casual Living, Outdoor Living, Living it up, and the second highest standard of living in the world."

"And most of them spent their time wishing they could get away from it all," said a cheerful horse-faced woman.

"To heck with the lot," said a man who was only with the museum tour because his wife said it would improve his mind, and they might as well get their money's worth out of their vacation. "I'm going along to the bar to get myself a drink. Need it after all this culture."

The guide looked after him wistfully. Then, pulling himself together, he began his accustomed talk.

The Barbecue Exhibit, he said, was taken from a department store that somehow escaped the atomic blast. And, as the store was one of a chain that stretched from sea to sea, the exhibit was typical of what business was selling to the masses in the 1950's.

The school teacher made a careful note. "The exhibit's central figure," the guide continued, "is a man dressed for the part. The apron is of what used to be called Terry Towelling, and you will see that the printed pattern is done in a glaring red and an ugly shade of green that was very popular in the 1950's."

"The apron's marked 'What's Cookin', Lover Boy?' Why?" asked the school teacher.

"Humor and the effect of mass media," said the guide, rather over-rating the intelligence of his listeners.

"Why's that guy doing the cooking?" asked the stubby little man. "Didn't they have wives and kitchens?"

The guide smiled wearily, for some man asked this question on every tour. In fact, his answer to it had developed into a short lecture on the social mores of the 1950's.

He started on it now—the inconsistency of women who wanted a thousand dollar, gadget-filled kitchen, and then demanded facilities for cooking out of doors. From there, the guide passed on to the barbecue pit, the portable barbecue, the electrically-operated barbecue, the packaged fuel, the checkered table cloth, the cute plastic dishes with barbecue motif, the napkins to match the tablecloth, the costume for the husband, and the wife sitting by while the husband did the work.

"Why did he stand for it?" asked the stubby little man.

"Because of the fancy costume," said the guide. "That chef's hat and a couple of drinks and he felt no end of a dog. Besides, the picture on the apron always raised a laugh."

The school teacher observed it closely and made an academic note.

"A fat, angry wife is peering over a hedge," the guide explained to the listeners who weren't near enough to see. "She's angry because she's caught her fat, startled husband with his hand on the thigh of a luscious, curving blonde."

"Humor?" asked the teacher.

The guide nodded. "The Twentieth Century was the age of the Common Man, you remember. They tried to see just how common they could get."

Mother Should Decide

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

In these days when hundreds of thousands of parents think it advisable to abdicate and to turn over the control of the family to their small children, it is a joy to find an article by Jane Whitbread, telling of a mother who decided to be old-fashioned, and to attend to her great responsibilities to her youngsters. She clings to her grandmother's idea that often "Mother knows best." She does not feel that she is ruining a child's ego by teaching him to be polite to the guests in the home, and to be considerate, and thoughtful of their comfort.

When Junior wants to go to a movie which shows little but rape, fighting, murder and hanging, this mother does not assume that her child must go simply because all the other mothers in the neighborhood have no sense. She says, "No dear: that is not a good movie for a small boy; wait a bit, and when a fine instructive movie comes, you can go."

Recently I was talking to a devoted and intelligent mother who, against her better judgment, let her extremely sensitive boy go to see Dracula. He thought he should go because "all the other kids were going." He came home sick with nervousness, and for a week, he had such nightmares he couldn't get much sleep. Fortunately he agrees now that such movies are not for him.

As Mrs. Whitbread says so truly, today in most families, "if Sally, aged four, keeps snatching the baby's bottle away from him, no one wants to suggest that she stop; that might interfere with her growing up as a hostile, mean, psychopathic and unmarriageable woman." Years later, when Sally is practicing her piano lesson and the baby, then aged three, keeps pounding the keys, no one should dare suggest that he stop—that might interfere with his growing up to be the school's biggest bully!

Where did we all get these ideas? I fear it was from people who did not have sense enough to direct their own lives very well, and who let their own children grow up to be "little stinkers." As I keep saying in this column, if good manners and pleasant and kindly and considerate and polite ways with people contribute so enormously to a person's success in life—and they certainly do—then why shouldn't we parents do everything possible to so train our child that by the time he is four he is obedient, respectful of his elders and of the guest who comes into the home, fair to his brothers and sisters and playmates, and able to control whatever anti-social tendencies he may have? My parents taught me and my brothers and sisters these things, and I cannot see that any of us were the least bit the worse for such training. We have all been sane and successful in life.

SYNOPSIS — The trailing edge of a disturbance in the Gulf of Alaska caused cloud patches in the northern B.C. coastal area this morning. In other sections of the province skies were clear. This weather pattern is expected to persist for the next two days. Skies will be clear in most districts in a well-established high-pressure ridge. An onshore flow of moist air will, however, continue to bring some cloud to the far northern coast.

Time Now for First Aid

At this time of the summer, a little judiciously administered first aid can be of value to certain garden plants.

Annuals, such as candytuft, edging alyssum, and nemesis, sometimes get the reputation of being short lived.

It is true that they come into flower quickly by late spring and seed pods form by July. If the seed pods are sheared off with scissors, new growth will be made and fresh flowers will soon appear. If the soil is either closely packed clay, or a loose sand, a feeding of complete fertilizer in liquid form will aid this new growth.

Annuals in general will need to have the old flowers removed, although some seldom form seed in this latitude.

Among the perennials are some gross feeders which will need assistance if they have less than the ideal garden soil as their growing medium. Gladioli and dahlias for September flowering may receive a boost to strengthen the stems and produce more and better flowers.

These plants, together with chrysanthemums, although classed as perennials have to make tremendous growth during the summer from scratch, as it were. Liquid feeding of complete fertilizer will send them on their triumphant way to glorious fall color.

Attend to the staking and tying of chrysanthemums and dahlias at the same time, for as they become taller and the flower buds develop, so the weight increases. A strong wind or a heavy rain can wreck a most beautiful display just at its (and your) proud moment.

Ike Dodges Invite for Mr. K

WASHINGTON (CP)—President Eisenhower still seems cool to the idea of inviting Premier Khrushchev to the United States. Some observers suggest that among the reasons for the lack of East-West progress at Geneva. Another may be Khrushchev's propaganda skill.

The President's coolness was evident at his press conference Wednesday. The reporters observed that Vice-President Nixon appeared to be considering whether to recommend that Khrushchev be given an invitation.

Well, replied the President, Nixon had every right to discuss the merits of such a visit but he had no right to proffer any invitation. That, of course, is the prerogative of the President.

But he didn't say any invitation would be forthcoming.

This contrasted with Khrushchev's, description of Eisenhower last week as a gentleman "quite up to the mark". He suggested Eisenhower visit Russia. Eisenhower didn't return the compliment.

W. Averell Harriman, former New York governor, said after his own Soviet tour that Khrushchev harbored a lot of misconceptions about the United States and that a visit might help dispel them.

A few weeks ago Eisenhower told reporters a lot of factors had to be considered in a Khrushchev visit, including public opinion and the wishes of the Allies. He had weighed the pros and cons and decided that for the present, the "cons had it".

How would the 68-year-old Eisenhower fare against him in a verbal propaganda fight? Despite three major illnesses, including a heart attack and a slight stroke, Eisenhower is alert and ever-conscious of honesty and integrity in government.

But there is no doubt the illnesses have left their mark, giving rise to questions of how the President would make out with the wily Khrushchev.

Yardstick Sets Chest Donations

A "fair-share yardstick" designed to help local companies figure out how much their Community Chest donations should be has been developed for this year's campaign.

Set up at the request of many Greater Victoria businessmen puzzled as to how much their firms' quotas should be, the yardstick is an entirely new feature in local Chest drives.

Firms will be divided into trade classifications and an objective fixed according to how many employees will donate. Companies with fewer than 10 employees will not be affected.

The scheme will set the size of each employee's suggested donation and a total for each company will be computed based on number of employees.

Firms below the average donation figure will be asked to equal the average and add the per cent of increase to the overall campaign goal.

Firms that would equal or exceed the average will be asked to give as much as they gave to last year's campaign, plus the per cent of increase.

The yardstick plan, used in many U.S. campaigns, is expected to "bring logic and equity into Chest giving."

Meanwhile, three nominations have been received for the Chest "Miss Red Feather" contest and a giant water skia-thon to Port Angeles arranged for some time in September.

The campaign, which has "If you don't help, who will?" for its slogan, kicks off Sept. 25 in a late-evening program at Yates and Douglas.

Progress of the $325,000 drive will be marked by a clock indicator on the Bank of Montreal building at the intersection.

SOMMERS' ACCUSER LOSES TORY BID

Lawyer David Sturdy, left, failed to win Conservative nomination for Vancouver-Point Grey provincial seat Wednesday. Among successful candidates was Dr. Desmond Kidd, right, who failed by only 11 votes to win the provincial-party leadership last year. Sturdy sparked the Sommers bribery investigations. Other successful nominees for seat were Vancouver Alderman Reg Atherton and housewife Mrs. Peter Poapes.

Local Groups to Vie in Blood Gifts

Plans for an intermunicipal blood-giving contest to be held probably in October were tentatively drawn up Wednesday at a meeting of Victoria Red Cross blood donor panel.

"But we want it understood we do not want to drive a wedge between the four municipalities," chairman Major Robert Hogarth said. "We do not want any friction."

The civic intermunicipal committee will be approached next month to be asked to give their blessing to the idea. Similar blood donor drives in recent years have been successful.

PER CAPITA BASIS

The contest, if approved by the intermunicipal committee, will be judged on amount of blood donated by each municipality's residents based on the number of residents.

"So no municipality should feel it hasn't a chance of winning merely because it has fewer residents," a panel member said.

The five-member panel also discussed ways to encourage established donors to keep coming to clinics, but frowned on a suggestion that clinics be held more frequently.

They underlined that the province as a whole needed 150 pints of blood per day and that "demand is increasing all the time."

One member said the situation was so drastic that many operations were being postponed because of lack of fresh blood. Another said he knew of at least one doctor who would not operate unless several pints more than he needed were available.

GET USED TO IT

Initial slight pain of a blood transfusion was thought to be a minor reason why eligible donors did not come forward, although it was pointed out the donor "gets used to the slight prick in his arm after he has donated a couple of times."

Next clinics will be held at Red Cross House, 1046 Fort, Aug. 26 and 27.

The society asks as many persons as possible to contribute, "in view of the fact this is the holiday season and inevitably more blood will be needed to take care of the higher rate of accidents.

Hospital 'Failure' By City

VANCOUVER (CP) — Health Minister Eric Martin said Wednesday "lack of initiative" on the part of Vancouver city council is responsible for a shortage of accommodation in hospitals here.

The minister said, in an interview, council has failed to take action on a proposal made by the provincial government two years ago for provision of a hospital for the chronically ill. He said councillors have "ignored their own responsibility."

Mr. Martin was commenting on reports of long delays in admission of patients to the city's hospitals. Heart and cancer patients were reported to have been unable to receive immediate treatment.

SURVEY MADE

"Due to lack of initiative by the Vancouver council, the government has had to instruct the B.C. hospital insurance service to take a survey of the entire metropolitan area to determine bed requirements," the minister said. "This is proceeding as rapidly as possible."

He said Nanaimo, North Vancouver and Kamloops soon will have hospitals for patients requiring long-term care, and other communities are planning similar institutions.

"There is no doubt that lack of long-term care facilities is one of the main reasons why acute care facilities in Vancouver are crowded," he said.

POINT du GHENE, N.B. (CP) — A tiny grey-haired woman in black, surrounded by 12 of her 13 surviving children, sat on a Northumberland Strait wharf here Wednesday night and blinked back the tears as she received a sympathetic smile and kind words from Queen Elizabeth.

It was a moment of solemnity that contrasted with the usually gay atmosphere of the Royal Tour.

The woman was Mrs. Albert Chiasson of Baie Ste. Anne, N.B., whose husband, 17-year-old son and three other relatives were among 35 drowned when a storm battered the fishing fleet off Escuminac, N.B., June 19 and 20.

Shortly before the Queen and Prince Philip boarded the royal barge bound for the yacht Britannia and an overnight trip to Charlottetown, they talked with 25 widows and mothers of men and youths lost in the disaster. Clustered around the sad-faced women were some 66 of the 83 children surviving the storm deaths.

The Queen asked Mrs. Chiasson about her family, ranging in age from seven months to 18 years.

Philip Thought They Were Rowboats

Bernard Jenkins, who was able to save three fishermen by taking them aboard his boat, was questioned by Prince Philip, who, asked about the size of the fishing boats, thinking they were like rowboats. He was told they are usually about 40 feet long.

Several of the women expressed their gratitude to the royal couple for seeing and talking to them and for their contribution, announced several weeks ago, to the Escuminac disaster fund which now has reached $275,000.

This episode was the final one in a day that began with a 70-mile motor trip from Fredericton to Lancaster and Saint John and carried on with an afternoon flight to Moncton and a drive to Shediac, the last stops on the royal couple's two-day visit to New Brunswick.

New Propeller May Save Cash

Changing your boat's propeller may save you money, even more than the cost of the new wheel. Besides, an extra propeller is good safety insurance.

Having a spare one handy could save that Sunday fishing excursion, or bring you safely home to your moorings the same day you left them.

Matching the propeller to your boat and motor combination can decrease fuel consumption, may save you costly motor repairs, and as a bonus should bring you more speed from improved operating efficiency.

Propellers are measured by diameter and pitch. These measurements are stamped on the base of the propeller, and the diameter measurement is always given first. They are also made in two-blade, three-blade, four and even five-blade styles.

Match Horsepower

The selection of a propeller is dependent upon the horsepower of the motor, its revolutions, and the design, size, weight of the boat and the service for which it will be used.

While most propeller manufacturers in their literature recommend what size and type of propeller to use for certain boat-motor combinations, and will even for inboard craft make an individual selection based on certain information furnished by the owner, the trial and error method of selection is the one sure way to acquire the utmost in propulsion efficiency.

A water speedometer may be used to tell at a glance if any speed increase is gained from a propeller change.

To Measure Change

Another method of comparing the performance of two propellers is by timing your boat with a stop watch between two points.

If there is a measured distance—mile or half mile—that you can run your boat over, better still, for this will enable you to make a further comparison: that between actual performance and theoretical performance.

Providing there was no loss in efficiency, it could be simply stated that a 12-inch-pitch propeller would advance through the water a distance of 12 inches in one revolution. Thus it could be figured that the distance a boat travelled would be the pitch of its wheel times its revolutions per minute. So the theoretical speed of your boat could be expressed as:

Pitch X rpm 60 = miles per hr.

But there is always a loss in propeller efficiency, for water is yielding, hull obstructions ahead of the propeller interfere with water flow to the propeller blades, and there are other technical factors. This loss in theoretical advance of your boat through the water is called propeller slip and is figured as a percentage of the theoretical speed.

Determining Need

By comparing actual speed with theoretical speed, you can determine whether there is a need to investigate a propeller change for your boat. In fast, planing hulls, powered by modern high speed engines, the slip should not be excessive—15 to 20 per cent. In heavy cruisers, however, the slip could be as high as 30 per cent. Excessive slip can often be cured by an increase in diameter and a reduction in pitch. One inch change in diameter is considered to be equal to two inches of pitch.

The diameter size is determined, broadly speaking, by such factors as the type and size of hull, the engine and the revolutions required to permit full power output. In easy-driven high speed hulls the propeller diameter is considerably less than for heavy cruiser hulls.

For water skiing, lower than normal pitch size or a change from three to four-blades is often desirable. Dual installations should use the next higher pitch than the normal.

STRIKE THREAT

SEATTLE (AP)—Executive secretary George Peckham of the American Federation of Television and Radio Artists Wednesday night threatened a strike against Seattle radio stations KIRO, KJR, KOMO unless they meet contract demands of 30 announcers and disk jockeys.

CANOGA PARK, CALIF. (AP)

Four years ago a man slipped into a pretty housewife's kitchen and grabbed her as she stood ironing. Mrs. Patricia Faye Smith smashed her iron against his face. The man fled, screaming, his face branded. Two weeks later she received a crudely written note. "I'll get you," it said. For Mrs. Smith it was the beginning of four years of torment. Once the man appeared again at her home and tried to rape her—but fled when her children came home. Countless times her phone has rung. A man's voice would say: "I'll get you."

Three times the Smiths moved—from one Los Angeles suburb to another. They were beginning to feel secure in their home in Canoga Park. Then, Wednesday the man returned. Mrs. Smith, 30, recognized him. A long, vivid scar stretches from his left eye to his mouth, she said. She said he forced her into the bathroom of the home, ripped off her blouse and pulled a penknife. She said he told her: "Now you are going to know what it feels like to be ugly." She said he slashed her on the ankle twice, then slashed at her shoulders, arms and thighs. Her oldest son heard her screams and pounded on the locked doors of the home. Mrs. Smith said the man smashed her face with his clenched fist and warned: "I'll be back to finish the job." Then he fled. Police put out an all-point bulletin for the scarred man, whose identity isn't known.

New Truck Fees Exempt Tourists

The B.C. cabinet has corrected a "slip" which could have disrupted the province's sought-after tourist trade.

Effective July 15, a new schedule of fees for overweight and oversize vehicles went into effect, aimed at ensuring heavy transport would pay a fairer share of costs.

Based on weight and mileage covered, the new fees can be costly. A vehicle two feet wider than the basic eight feet would pay $10 for every 1,000 miles travelled, payable monthly.

Until today, there was no exemption for touring trailers. A guest from another province or the U.S. and local trailer owners, if their trailer was oversize, could, under the circumstances given, have been charged $100 for a trip through B.C.

Transport Minister Lyle Wicks announced the exemption of touring trailers. They will pay a flat $2 each if they are oversize. It was learned, despite the regulation in effect for almost two weeks, no one has been charged the commercial rate.

The minister also announced that farm vehicles up to 15,000 pounds gross weight will be excused from vastly increased licence fees which will become effective next March 1 for heavy transport.

A special oversize rate has also been set for logging trucks—$15 a month, as compared to rates as high as $400 a month based on overweight for commercial trucking.

'POCKET ROCKET' FOR TROOPS

ABERDEEN, Md. (AP)—A rocket designed to give a foot soldier some defence against a strafing plane is being developed, the army's weapons research staff here says.

Lt. Gen. Arthur G. Trudeau said the "Red Eye" uses the same principle as the "Sidewinder," an air-to-air missile which is attracted to the heat of an engine.

The ground-to-air weapon is fired by hand from a bazooka-like launcher and is effective up to one mile, Gen. Trudeau said. He did not disclose how close the arm is to putting it in the hands of troops.

'Careless Driving' Charge Lessened

A promised attack on the validity of a careless driving charge was dropped in Colwood RCMP court Wednesday when the defence won its case through insufficient Crown evidence.

The defendant pleaded guilty to a substitute lesser charge of driving over a double solid centre line and was fined $25 and $5 costs.

Frank Wilson Tingle, 3171 Methosin, also named in the charge as Frank Taylor Tingle and Frank Wilson Tingle, had pleaded not guilty to a charge of allowing a car registered to him to be driven carelessly. Counsel James Proudfoot told Magistrate A. I. Thomas last week he was prepared to argue there is no such charge under the Motor Vehicles Act. He asked for dismissal.

Tingle was charged after Mrs. Madeline Armstrong, wife of Cpl. J. H. Armstrong, of Colwood RCMP, who was complainant, said a car driven by Tingle passed her car at the north approach to Parsons Bridge on the Old Island Highway.

Magistrate Thomas remanded the case one week to consider the Crown evidence. He told Mr. Proudfoot Wednesday:

"In reviewing I must go along with your argument that there is insufficient evidence to support a charge of careless driving. But there is evidence to support a lesser charge of crossing a solid white line."

BONSPIEL SCHEDULED

Curlers Decline Summer Vacation

The "gone fishin'" sign is tacked on the door of the Victoria Curling Club this week while manager Bill Oliver and his staff are away on vacation, but curlers apparently refuse to take a holiday.

Entries are starting to file in for the Quade Street club's annual mid-summer mixed bonspiel, scheduled for the Labor Day weekend (September 7, 8, 9). To date more than a dozen entries have been received.

MAINLAND ENTRIES

Early indications point to a strong out-of-town entry. Among the visiting rinks entered are those skipped by Keith Deacon and Jack Horning, of New Westminster; W. D. Wadsworth, of Duncan, and Jack Gagnon, of Mission.

Local skips entered include Steve Hayhurst, Morley MacDonald, Keith James, Wes Young, Bill MacLean and Gar Taylor.

Entry limit is 64.

SPECIAL EVENT

A bonspiel innovation this year is a special event for all rinks with two or more ladies. It was also announced that March 14 to 17 has been set aside for the Western Canada ladies' championship, being held in Victoria for the first time next season.

Local curlers were saddened to learn of the illness of Bill Hyde, "Canada's oldest curler". Bill is in St. Joseph's Hospital and will be more than happy to receive visitors.

Campbell Shatters Bill's Title Dreams

MONTREAL — Bill Wakeham of Victoria sat on the sidelines here today, his dreams of a second Canadian junior golf championship shattered in the first round.

The slender Gorge Vale shot-maker, who won the title in 1957 at the age of 16, was ousted in his first match of this year's tournament Wednesday.

Terry Campbell of Vancouver, one of Wakeham's mates on the B.C. junior interprovincial team, eliminated the Victoria youth one up after grabbing a one-stroke lead on the front nine.

PANASIUK STILL IN

Campbell in turn went down to defeat in the second round, bowing to Ray Zabowski of Montreal, 5 and 4.

With Wakeham out, the only remaining former champion is Bobby Panasiuk of Windsor, Ont., who won the event in 1958.

He met Zabowski in the quarter-finals today.

Panasiuk nearly didn't survive Wednesday's second round as he met Ed Ross Jr. of Saskatoon, and barely pulled out a one-up win. The defending champion had earlier stomped on Andre Tremblay of Montreal, 8 and 6.

Panasiuk was still the favorite, but his close call Wednesday gave rise to speculation that the winner might be somewhere among the other seven quarter-finalists.

MORGAN A THREAT

One of those bouncing into prominence was John Morgan of Vancouver, whose two steady rounds Wednesday — and victories by wide margins — stamped him as a distinct threat.

The East-West lineup for the quarter-finals stood at five to three for the East, with three of the easterners in the top half of the draw.

City Keepers Take Trophy

A team of Victoria greenskeepers scored a 7-3 victory over their Vancouver counterparts, Tuesday, at Cowichan Golf and Country Club, to win possession of the T. D. Pattullo Cup.

Scorers, with singles and scores in parentheses: R. Mitchell (Heechgrove) (0-0), N. Boden (Gorge Vale) (1-1), R. Smith (Capilano) (0), F. Painter (Gorge Vale) (1), D. Clarke (Point Grey) (1-1), T. Thorpe (Cohens) (0-0), R. McLean (McClary) (1), C. A. Smith (Oak Bay) (0), M. Gurne (Vancouver) (0-0), F. Gavin (Uplands) (1-1), R. Gaddy (Fraser View) (0), R. Begg (Oak Bay) (1), G. Chambers (Vancouver) (0), F. Ellis (Victoria) (1).

Another World Mark For Japanese Ace

KURE, Japan (AP) — Tsuyoshi Yamanaka, Japan's speedy middle and long-distance swimmer, shattered the world record for the 800 metre freestyle Wednesday for the second time within eight days. Yamanaka clocked 9 minutes 13.3 seconds to clip 1.2 seconds off the 9:14.5 mark set by Jon Konrads of Australia last year.

CLEVELAND — Solomon Boyasaw, 133, Cleveland, outpointed Flash Eldridge, 134, Philippines, 16.

SYDNEY, N.S. — Blair Richardson, Maritimes middleweight champion, scored sixth-round TKO over Al Duarte, New Bedford, Mass.

HOW YOUR LIVER BILE BREAKS DOWN FAT

Laboratory tests have now proved that liver bile emulsifies fat... actually breaks it down. It is an established medical fact that when liver bile is added to fatty solids, the fat is broken down and forms a smooth, easy-flowing mix.

In your body, precious liver bile helps break down fat the same way. Many foods reach the digestive tract as undigested fatty solids. Your golden liver bile helps break down this fat... emulsifies it... for easier and more complete digestion.

Carle's Little Liver Pills exclusive formula of natural, vegetable ingredients relieves irregularity gently and effectively. At the same time, it actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat in your body.

So when you feel sluggish, headachy, nervous and need a laxative, get Carle's Little Liver Pills. Remember, Carle's not only relieves irregularity, but actually improves the flow of liver bile needed to break down fat.

Evcoes' First Test May Be Biggest One

Officially, the Pacific Coast Soccer League is no more today but the six teams that made up the summer circuit will continue their booting efforts for a few more weeks.

It's Dominion Challenge Cup time again, and the playdowns leading to the Canadian championship get under way this weekend.

Regardless of what route Victoria Evcoes take, the trail to the summit will seem comparatively easy if the city's representatives can survive the first leg.

POWER-PACKED CLUB

Evcoes, who have provided a pleasant surprise for local football followers by finishing in a tie for second in the final PCL tabulations, have drawn "the big team" as their first-round opposition in the Dominion Challenge Cup playoffs.

The "big team" of course, is New Westminster Royals — a power-packed aggregation who finished first in the summer circuit and who also happen to be the defending Canadian champions.

Royals and Evcoes play their first-round contest, a sudden-death affair, at Royal Athletic Park on Sunday.

STARTS SATURDAY

The fact that Royals are to supply the opposition and that Evcoes are on a winning streak of three straight could be sufficient to attract a bumper crowd to the DFA playoffs.

Cup play will start in Vancouver's Callister Park Saturday with Labatts meeting Carlings. Two other mainland entries — Continentals and Halecos — drew opening byes.

Halecos will play the winner of the Victoria-New Westminster game while the other first-round survivors face Continentals in the semi-finals.

HALECOS WIN

Wednesday night, Halecos defeated Continentals, 3-2, to officially close the coast loop schedule. The match had no effect on the standings.

Royals, as league champions, receive $600 prize money while Victoria and Carlings each get $200 for finishing second.

Predominate Wins Again

GOODWOOD, England (AP) — Harry J. Joel's Predominate, Wednesday, became the third horse in the 136-year history of the Goodwood Stakes to win the event two straight years.

The seven-year-old chestnut gelding took the lead in the last 200 yards to win by a length over All Serene, with Pappy Ahead third.

Predominate covered the turf course in 4:37.8, to take first money of $4,356.

Sir Winston Churchill's Welsh Abbott was second by two lengths to H. D. Will's Right Boy in the five-furlong King George Stakes. The time was 58.8.

One-Stroke Triumph

Mrs. R. L. Stiles, finishing with a score of 95-27-73, edged runner-up Mrs. G. T. Quincey by one stroke Tuesday to win the women's Patinson Trophy competition at Uplands Golf Club.

CANADIAN BOOT BRASS TO DISCUSS PROBLEMS

HAMILTON (CP) — The Canadian Soccer Football Association will hold a special meeting in Winnipeg Aug. 7 to discuss two problems besetting the sport, Arthur Arnold, immediate past president, said Wednesday.

Arnold said the CSFA, governing body of Canadian soccer, will consider:

Professionalism: "The non-amateur form has created too much confusion and it is high time an understanding on the subject was brought to light for every affiliate club in the Dominion."

Touring teams: Arnold said a curtailment of the influx of touring teams is needed for the welfare of soccer.

Outboards Away In 723-Mile Race

SEATTLE (AP) — Eight outboard motorboats started at Ketchikan, Alaska, today in a 723-mile ocean race along the North American continent's mountain-bordered west coast to Seattle.

The four-day dash is limited to craft at least 16 feet long and capable of 20 miles an hour. Every one will be hustled along by two engines, none generating less than 35 horsepower.

The boats will make 85-mile runs each day. After overnight halts, there will be an even start about dawn each day. The finish is due about 3 p.m. PDT Sunday in Seattle's Shilstone Bay.

The winner will be decided upon a basis of total elapsed time.

There are two classes of entrants. Class A is for engines with up to 150 cubic inch displacement, Class B for power plants of 90 cubic inches.

The three Class A entrants — most boats will have two pilots — are John Haydon and Chuck Stewart of Seattle, J. Aubrey Ash and Harold Ball of Duncan, B.C., and Carmen Pasco, Victoria.

ALTHEA TO TURN PRO?

In 'Iffy' Stage

NEW YORK (AP) — Althea Gibson may turn professional in the fall to head an all-women's tennis tour operating in competition with Jack Kramer's famous east.

"Everything is in an 'iffy' stage at the moment but the tennis tour idea still is very much in the picture," the two-time Wimbledon champion said Wednesday after being honored as the 1958 woman athlete of the year.

Althea declined to identify the possibilities but her long time advisor, Sydney Llewellyn, said Britain's towering Christine Truman was a candidate as well as American stars Beverly Fleitz and Darlene Hard.

Lack of Funds Keeps British Riflemen Home

OTTAWA (CP)—A family campsite and the army's new rifle, the 7.66-millimetre FN, will give a new look to this year's Dominion of Canada Rifle Association matches.

ANNUAL DERBY

Chinooks Chase Trophies Sunday

Sunday is the day Chinook Club anglers go trolling for trophies at Saanich Inlet.

Winnie's Monarch Goodwood Winner

GOODWOOD, Eng. (AP) — Tudor Monarch, a four-year-old owned by Sir Winston Churchill, won the six-furlong Steward's Cup by a neck Tuesday.

Tudor Monarch moved out in front in the final strides for the victory that enriched his famed owner by $7,680.

Deep Leap, owned by Sir Foster Robinson, was second with St. Elmo third. The time was one minute, 13.7 seconds.

knocking at the gates of the week-long shoot at the Connaught ranges west of Ottawa.

An FN match is on the program for the first time but it will not count toward the Aug.

15 meet's main prizes — the Q.C. medal, the Dominion of Canada service rifle championship and the 18 places on Canada's 1960 Bisset team.

Some 600 competitors, including several women, and about 150 teen-age cadets, are expected from all 10 provinces for the matches.

They will be preceded by the Ontario Rifle Association meet Aug. 5-7 and the national small-bore rifle and pistol championships Aug. 7-9.

The DCRA, which traditionally fires the army's rifle, is expected eventually to replace its existing weapon, the .303-calibre No. 4, with the FN. The army began conversion to the new rifle in 1957, but DCRA officials are reluctant to estimate when they will make the change.

WELCOME ADDITION

The family campsite is a welcome innovation for competitors' wives and children who previously had to stay at motels some distance from camp or at tent town—a roadside area outside camp limits.

The only women's accommodation in the sprawling, 2,600-acre camp was a hut for women competitors.

Work gangs are now busy transforming grassy fields into a 450-tent city to shelter competitors and the 300 employees needed to look after them. The camp has its own kitchens, messes, post office, canteen, theatre, telegraph office and police force—a tri-service provost unit.

Quartermasters and armors will keep the riflemen supplied with cots, blankets and ammunition.

An Ottawa militia unit, the 3rd Signal Regiment, will operate a communications system linking by phone and radio the camp offices, the half-mile long firing ranges and the concrete butts where 150 markers, mostly teenagers, patch targets and signal hits.

SMALL-BORE MATCHES
Absence of a British team has forced cancellation of two competitions for Commonwealth squads—the Canada and Commonwealth matches. A senior or cadet team from Britain has competed here almost every summer, but DCRA officials says none is coming this year because of lack of funds.

About 200 crack shots are entering the Ontario Rifle Association shoot, held here for the first time last year after the defence department sold the Long Branch ranges near Toronto.

The small-bore and pistol matches, sponsored by the DCRA and the Canadian Civilian Association of Marksmen, are expected to attract some 150 Canadian and United States competitors.

U.S. shots have dominated open pistol and small-bore rifle events for years but a Canadian, Gary McMahon, 26, of Dartmouth, N.S., won the 1958 handgun title.

MERCHETTES WILL TEST LUCK AGAINST VICETTES

Winners of their own five-team league, Nanaimo Merchettes will try their luck in Victoria Sunday.

Reported to be a well-balanced club, Merchettes will take on Victoria Vicettes in a women's softball doubleheader at Central Park. Game times are 1.30 and 3.30 p.m.

Vicettes, who dropped a couple of tough decisions to the high-flying Bremerton Skylarks last weekend, will be without one of their pitching aces —Lorraine Shields, who is scheduled to take a Friday walk down the middle aisle with another well-known city athlete, Chummy Crabbe.

Anything Goes In Sprint Cars

Driver Dick Varley and mechanic-owner Grant King, a team that stirred considerable controversy when they produced a borderline stock car earlier this season, are running at Western Speedway again Sunday afternoon.

This trip, however, isn't expected to create any controversy. They're teaming up in an effort to nail down the big purses from Sunday's Indianapolis-style sprint car meet. Unlike stockers, "anything goes" into the building of sprint cars.

Varley, who has already two heat victories to his credit this season, will steer King's fuel-injected GMC when a field of 17 throttles after the Roy White Memorial Trophy.

Our Johnie Close Second

VANCOUVER (CP)—Caveat Emptor, staging a come-from-behind battle in the stretch, nosed out the favored Our Johnie, Wednesday night, to win the $1,500 seventh race at Lansdowne Park.

Caveat Emptor, a three-year-old chestnut colt, was seventh coming into the stretch. In a burst of speed he passed the even-money favorite Our Johnie at the wire.

Despite a fast track and clear weather, the best time turned in for the six furlongs was 1.11, by Big Julius, in the sixth.

About 6,500 persons jammed the Lulu Island track for the day's card. The first race quinella paid $40.70, the eighth $62.50.

Prairie Horseman Pays $21,000 for 'The Major'

TIME OUT!

"Right about here my game usually starts to fall apart!"

Yo-Yo Routine At St. Louis

ST. LOUIS (AP)—St. Louis Cardinals demoted one right-handed pitcher and promoted another Wednesday.

Dick Ricketts, who won one and lost six for the Cards this season, is on his way to Rochester in the Triple A International League.

He is being replaced by Bob Gibson from Omaha, Neb., in the triple A American Association.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two Victoria-owned thoroughbreds were sold to Prairie buyers Wednesday for a total of $27,000 during the Lansdowne Park track season here.

Major Turley, four-year-old owned and bred by Don Carley, went for $21,000 to Fred Clarke Jr. of Saskatoon. Major Turley was the champion British Columbia three-year-old last year.

Our Johnie was sold by George Bremner of Victoria for $6,000 to Tony Ziegler of Edmonton.

The sale of Major Turley came after a firm bid of $15,000 was received from a buyer in Phoenix, Ariz. The purchase price does not include a tax of about $4,000 on the deal.

WITHDRAWN FROM RACE

Our Johnie will ship out next Tuesday for Edmonton to be trained by Jim Kilgour. Bud McDonald will be future trainer for Major Turley.

Major Turley was withdrawn from an exhibition race with two other horses when he was sold. He was galloped around the track and led back to the stable. He was to have raced with Kadra and Bid Debate in a warm-up before the day's card at Lansdowne.

Major Turley was leading money winner on British Columbia tracks last year with earnings of $9,770.

In eight starts he recorded five victories and two seconds.

The grey gelding's most impressive victory was the $3,000 Ascot Derby Stakes at Exhibition Park. Carrying 126 pounds including jockey Jack Arterburn, the Major outduelled the brilliant filly Ky Mira the last five-eighths of the mile and a quarter journey to win by half a length.

Despite his impost and a muddy track, Major Turley was bet down to 50 cents on the dollar, an indication of the public's belief in his superiority.

Our Johnie was third in purse winnings among British Columbia two-year-olds. In ten starts he had four firsts, four seconds, a third and a fourth worth $4,395. He might have won the rich British Columbia Futurity except for poor racing luck.

FLYING FOXES BIG ATTRACTION

Visiting Naturalists See Rare Island Zoo Collection

(From Duncan Bureau)

Jim Oyen, amateur zoologist and taxidermist from The Netherlands is proud of his flying foxes, which are so accustomed to life here that they eat ice-cream cones.

Zoologists from Victoria, Vancouver, and Calgary have made special trips to see them hanging upside-down in their cage at the Centra-Fauna Reptile Zoo, three miles south of Duncan on Glenora Road.

Tom Baines, curator and zoologist of the Calgary Zoo, made a special trip to see the "kalong," or flying foxes. They look like winged Chihuaha dogs.

Dr. Clifford Carl, curator of the provincial museum in Victoria, also has shown interest in them.

TOPSY TURVEY

"They are funny animals, their natural way of living," Mr. Oyen remarked.

"When they are hot they fan themselves with their wings, and when cold they wrap in them like a blanket. Hanging in that cage is an investment of about $600."

"I saw three, 20 years ago in Holland. I could never forget the sight of them," Mr. Oyen said.

Monthly Payment Of Taxes Wanted

ALBERNI (CP) — Alberni city council has asked the Union of British Columbia Municipalities to establish a committee to investigate the paying of city taxes by the month instead of annually.

The council said monthly payment would ease the burden on the taxpayer and provide a more regular income for cities.

Farmer Construction Limited of Victoria, has been awarded contracts for construction of new B.C. Telephone Company buildings at Parksville and Chemainus.

Water Supply 'Dangerously' Low at Resort

PARKSVILLE—A 21-day stretch without rain, and excessive use of water since imposition of sprinkling restrictions, has driven water stocks here to the danger point and has the village commission on the verge of declaring an emergency.

At present pumps feeding the 140,000-gallon village reservoir are not able to meet demand, and there is a "dangerously low" margin in the reservoir to meet a fire call.

On two occasions last week the reservoir was empty, the commission was told.

Trouble started when sprinkling restrictions, designed to reduce consumption, instead sent it sky-high. Residents who were used to watering their gardens for an hour or two each day immediately began to run their hoses for the whole of the period allowed, from 6 a.m. to 10 p.m. three days per week.

HEED FIRE SIRENS

"This situation must stop," said Commissioner Art Butler. "We appeal to the common sense of all residents and rely on them to curtail unnecessary sprinkling."

Commission has asked that residents water gardens only when necessary, turn off sprinklers immediately if water pressure shows signs of dropping, and turn off all hoses and taps immediately if a fire siren sounds.

Some control of the large tourist industry here was suggested by Commissioner Frank Shortreid, who advocated that owners of auto courts and tent sites put spring-loaded taps on all outlets as an alternative to the village placing meters on such premises.

Total rainfall this month has been .34 inch, whereas the average for the past 10 years has been 1.59 inches.

Family Rescued When Boat Sinks

NANAIMO (CP) — A Vancouver school teacher, his wife, and two children were rescued off Nanaimo Wednesday after their 36-foot converted lifeboat sprang a leak and sank.

The family was picked up off Entrance Island by the CPR ferry Princess of Nanaimo.

Everitt J. Wilks, his wife, Rene, their son Leslie, 11, and daughter Leigh, 9, were on a holiday cruise in the former government lifeboat Tofino Belle when they noticed water coming up over the floorboards.

When he found he couldn't pump the water out fast enough, Mr. Wilks launched the two dinghies he had aboard. Shortly afterwards they flagged down the CPR ferry.

NOT CHAMBER'S OPINION

Editor's Remarks On Wicks His Own

DUNCAN — Opinions expressed by newspaper editor Will Dobson at a meeting of the Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce, Monday, regarding Labor Minister Lyle Wicks, were not those of the chamber, according to Bert Evans, president.

Following a special meeting of the chamber executive, Wednesday, Mr. Evans said a letter will be sent to Mr. Wicks stating that Mr. Dobson's remarks were his own private views.

During discussion of methods of mediating labor disputes, Mr. Dobson referred to

Mr. Wicks as a "third-rater", a "nincompoop", and a "rotten" labor minister.

The chamber had sent a letter to Mr. Wicks suggesting an impartial, hand-picked tribunal be established to deal with labor disputes. Discussion Monday followed reading of Mr. Wicks' reply that the Labor Relations Board serves this purpose.

Although dissociating itself from Mr. Dobson's views, the chamber's letter to Mr. Wicks will explain more fully its opinions on the need for a mediation board, Mr. Evans said.

Error of Pilot Caused Fatality, Inquest Rules

QUALICUM BEACH—Crash death of private airplane pilot Albert Arthur Lutz, 39, here July 22 before crowds of swimmers and picnickers was blamed by a coroner's jury Wednesday on an error in judgment.

Lutz, part-owner of Stuart Island logging operation, had flown from the island to pick up his wife and young son, who were visiting here. They saw his Cessna float plane plunge into the water from a height of 500 feet.

Evidence was given at the inquest by Rev. William H. Bullock, Roman Catholic priest and licensed pilot, and one other civilian pilot, who said they believed Lutz had made a mistake in judgment on attempting to land just a few hundred yards off shore.

The inquest was conducted by Magistrate Thomas Hadfield coroner.

Jail Threat Brings Quick Fine Payment

(From Duncan Bureau) Victorians provided most of the work—and some trouble—for Magistrate A. C. Sutton at the regular sitting of police court in Duncan Wednesday.

Stanley James Coles pleaded guilty to a charge of speeding and was fined $25 and $5 court costs. He had been checked by radar July 28, near Cobble Hill, on the Trans-Canada Highway.

After leaving the courtroom he said, "I will pay this under protest."

He then came back into the courtroom and told the magistrate he resented his licence being endorsed.

WENT FOR CASH

He was given permission to go up town and cash a cheque. When leaving the RCMP building he said, "I may be back but I don't know when."

"All right, lock him up," Magistrate Sutton said.

The fine was paid. David Philip Christoffersen was remanded without plea to Friday when he appeared in court on three charges, two of which were for obtaining money by false pretences.

He is accused of obtaining $40 on two worthless cheques, passed July 11 and July 16 at Maple Bay, and not paying for food and lodging after staying at Captain Morgan Lodge, Genoa Bay, July 7.

Edward Durdle was fined $10 and $5.50 court costs after pleading guilty to a charge of fishing in non-tidal waters without an angler's licence.

He had been stopped at Shawnigan Lake June 28 at 3.35 p.m.

His fishing tackle was returned after the conviction.

Fluoridation Vote Pressed

A Chamber of Commerce sub-committee will try to convince Greater Victoria councils to put a fluoridation referendum before voters this December despite a Wednesday recommendation by inter-municipal committee of a year's postponement.

Ira Hill, chairman of the fluoridation sub-committee under the chamber's public affairs group, commented:

"We're disappointed but we'll go ahead anyway."

He said the committee still intends to approach the individual councils and ask for a plebiscite this year.

"After that we'll go ahead with our plan to inform the public of the facts," he said.

Inter-municipal committee recommended the year's delay at the request of pro-fluoridationist Coun. G. K. Sammon of Esquimalt. He said the people were not ready for a vote on the question yet and there was not enough time for a full educational campaign "of the pros and cons" before the civic elections.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow agreed that more information was needed and suggested that councils could put up some money to finance a study. However, the committee rejected the proposal on the grounds that it was up to interested groups to provide information, not councils.

PREMIER BENNETT bad for the debt

'MR. BONNER'S STORES' ARE A BAD INFLUENCE

VANCOUVER (CP)—Premier Bennett called for fewer customers for "Mr. Bonner's stores"—the government liquor outlets—as one way for individuals in the province to achieve a debt-free status.

Discussing the pending celebration of the end of the province's direct debt, Mr. Bennett was asked by a reporter how the average citizen could improve his financial position.

"There are certain expenditures we could all cut out," Mr. Bennett replied, "and some of it is in Mr. Bonner's stores."

He said the attorney-general's department is obligated by law to handle liquor, but added:

"Everyone should show more restraint in alcohol consumption."

Labor Court Referendum Asked By Municipalities

BIG CROWDS BUT WATERCADE LOST MONEY

Loss of between $5,000 and $6,000 was sustained by the Victoria North Kiwanis Club, sponsors of the Holiday Watercade which played here in the Memorial Arena six days ending Wednesday.

About 14,000 persons saw the imported show, but only slightly more than half these paid admissions, financial manager Bill Veitch, said today.

He said the turnout was low because "too many persons were on holidays."

This means that plans for a new building for retarded children must be shelved, until at least next year.

It had been hoped to raise close to $15,000 by the show, with the club putting up another $5,000 to improve the accommodation.

Mr. Veitch emphasized that the club "is not desperate and not unhappy."

"We have learned by our experience."

Inter-municipal committee Wednesday recommended that Greater Victoria councils ask the provincial government for a province-wide referendum on establishment of a labor court.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow put forward the suggestion after observing that Labor Minister Lyle Wicks had said the people were not ready for a labor court "but he isn't in a position to know."

"I think we should ask the government to put a referendum to the people as to whether they want a labor court," he said.

Comparison With Russian Practice

Establishment of a labor court "would indicate force, forcing men to work, so I'm against it. That's the sort of thing you would have in Russia," he said.

Ald. Edgelow said a labor court was needed to settle industrial disputes. He said labor unrest here was discouraging development of new industries.

Oak Bay Coun. Fred Robinson said the time had come "when labor and management should be forced to get together and not let a small minority—which is what they are—upset the whole economy of the province. It's beyond a joke."

The committee also agreed to

MAYOR HEADS COMMITTEE

Ferry Problem To Be Tackled

Mayor Percy Scurrell has been empowered to appoint a special "action" committee to solve Greater Victoria's ferry service problem.

Inter-municipal committee Wednesday agreed to stand by whatever decisions the as-yet unnamed group takes to obtain "stop-gap" service between Victoria and Vancouver during the coming winter months and to ensure that the city is served by a proper freight service.

The special committee is almost certain to ask Prime Minister John Diefenbaker for a temporary subsidy to keep the CPR ferry running between the announced Sept. 26 cutoff date and the start of the provincial ferry operation.

Second string to its bow will be an Oak Bay council resolution urging the provincial government to "requisition" a CPR ferry or, alternatively, a Black Ball ferry to maintain the Victoria-Vancouver link during the winter.

Coun. Fred Mawes of Oak Bay also suggested that the committee try to obtain a regular "piggy-back" barge service to Vancouver for truck trailers so that truckers do not route their units through Nanaimo.

Shark's Teeth Rake Skindiver

LA JOLLA, Calif. (AP)—A skindiving lifeguard has 15 tooth marks on his leg to vouch for this fact: Sharks are on the prowl off the California coast.

The shark swam around him in lazy circles. When he headed for shore, it swam away. A 10-foot length of fishing line trailed from its mouth.

The attack occurred 300 yards from where Robert Pamperin, 33, was killed by a great white shark last month.

A FORESTER'S TRAVELS

By Fran Robinson

First woman ever admitted to the Association of British Columbia Foresters, University of British Columbia forestry graduate Mrs. A. B. "Fran" Robinson, 32, is currently touring Scandinavia and the U.S.S.R. to further studies on forest management. For the past three years she has been employed with the British Columbia Forest Service in Victoria. Mrs. Robinson is also married to a forester, A. B. "Tony" Robinson. Their home here is at 1416 Fairfield. While on tour Mrs. Robinson is writing a column for the Times.

HELSINKI — The Finnish "border country" — for the Finns there is only one border — is in the east. No one wants to live too close. Roads have a way of turning suddenly when they approach the border, and trains become all-freight.

If the south was thriving and lighthearted, the border country is industrious but sober, and perhaps a little fearful. The people work harder and don't laugh as much. Children are solemn eyed and quiet.

In Lapland, along the road from Kemijarvi to Salla and Kellosoika, and well north of the Arctic Circle, you can see the scars of war. Giant granite boulders in long-winding lines still stand in the fields as anti-tank protection, and at even the tiniest village you will find a granite war memorial with its staggering list of dead.

War-Burned Towns
Battles of both wars oscillated in this country: the Russian-Finnish War and the War of Continuation. Many towns were burned in the German exodus north. For us in Canada the war came very close, but never so close that we fought for our lives at our very doors. Perhaps that is what makes the Finnish soldier such a fierce fighter. He has always fought on his own soil for his very existence.

cottage about 10 miles from the border. Across the lake we could see Pieni Pyha Tunturi, one of the Lapp hills which give this northern country that rolling topography, so ideal for cross-country skiing. At the very edge of the lake was the "savu-sauna", the steambath. Steambath is really not the best translation, it reminds one of steam cabinets, whereas the sauna is a large room, and the steam feels quite dry. Most backwoods Finns build their sauna first, then live in it until they can build a house. For them it is a necessity: it is the family bathtub. But it goes beyond that, and even the most modern homes have their sauna. It has become a national institution. "Come for a sauna" is Finnish hospitality at its best.

Heat Adjusted
There are three rooms: the dressing room, the washing room, and the steam room. In the latter, a fire (in a closed oven with chimney, and fed from outside) is maintained for several hours under a crib of lemon-sized rocks. When the rocks are hot, you pour a small dipperful of water over them, and the steam circles the room. There are benches, usually ascending as steps, so that you can enjoy steam at whatever intensity you like: very hot at the top to warm at the bottom.

What do you wear? Whatever you usually wear in a bathtub. Families often go together, but if there are guests, the women and children bathe first.

What do you do? Well, mostly you just sit or lie, and let the steam envelop you. It soothes tired muscles, it completely relaxes you, and is the best thing that I know for a head cold. Bundles of fresh, leafy birch branches, tied into bundles, are used to increase body circulation. Just a gentle beating brings on a terrific sweat. In the wash-room you can scrub yourself, then skip down to the lake for that invigorating plunge.

The savu-sauna, or smoke steambath is the most primitive type. The oven is open, and smoke is allowed to seep through the rocks and to fill the steamroom for several hours. When the fire dies down, and the smoke clears, water can be poured on the rocks as explained; but there is an unmistakable difference. The steam has a slightly smoky aroma, and the steam feels much drier.

From the very elaborate sauna at Usikyla Forestry School in the south, to this little one at Salla in the north, I found nothing more exhilarating. I made little noises at home about building a sauna in our back garden on Fairfield Road, but my husband, conservative by nature, said, "But dear, what would the neighbors think if we trailed out in dressing gowns and towels?" No, I don't think they'd understand.

Forests Far North
And still the forests continue. In Canada we would be in the tundras at this latitude, but here the pines grow well, and produce that hard, slow-grown lumber. But the spruce are stunted, and look very like our northern black spruce, sombre and eerie, and covered with Old Man's Beard.

These northern Finnish forests are the home of the Moomintrolls. You don't know the Moomins? They are that delightful, but very odd family conceived by Tove Jansen. There are the Moomins, the Hemulin, the Snark maiden, Snufkin and Sniff who have the most amazing adventures during the Arctic summer, then hibernate for the dreary winter months. It is truly a children's classic.

I travelled the road down from Salla to Kuusamo by post bus, a post office on wheels, casual and social, but not the fastest way between two points. Then on to Ammanasari, Kajaani and Iisalmi, with stops to see countryside and forest. At Iisalmi I caught the night train south. Sleeping berths were three-decker affairs, and where was I?—on the top, of course. After a valiant climb I felt like Hillary on Everest.

EX-CIVIL SERVANT SAYS

Sought Nomination Still Held His Job

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dirk Van der Bent of Burnaby said today he sought a Social Credit party nomination while he was a civil servant and was not fired for it.

Mr. Van der Bent, former orderly at the provincially operated Pearson Tuberculosis Hospital, said he thinks it was unfair that Dave Barrett was fired for seeking a CCF nomination.

Barrett said Monday he lost his job as personnel training officer at the Haney Correctional Institute when he sought the CCF nomination in Dewdney. Labor Minister Wicks' constituency.

Mr. Van der Bent said Noel Murphy, president of the British Columbia Social Credit League, was fully aware of his intention to seek the nomination.

Mr. Van der Bent was among several persons named by B.C. CCF leader Robert Strachan as having retained their civil service positions despite activity for the Social Credit party.

"It was certainly unfair to fire this man," Mr. Van der Bent said. "I was never once told there was anything wrong with my seeking the nomination."

Tuna Catches Recorded Off Estevan Pt.

Good catches of Albacore tuna were reported over the weekend 50 miles off Destruction Island, Wash., to 40 miles off Estevan Point on the west coast of Vancouver Island.

On Saturday the federal fisheries protection cruiser Laurier, rigged with tuna fishing gear for test fishing, picked up 25 Albacore tuna, weighing on the average of 20 pounds apiece. The water temperature at that time was as high as 63 degrees Fahrenheit.

United States fishermen operating in this area have enjoyed steadily improving catches of tuna. Fifty American boats on Friday averaged 100 fish each and on Sunday returns of better than 200 fish per boat were realized with the high boat taking more than 400 tuna.

Sightings of tuna were also reported some 80 miles off Cape Cook, on the northwest coast of Vancouver Island.

Ex-Flyer Sees Films of 1916 Training

First World War films of Royal Naval Air Service training flights were shown at the Pacific Club Tuesday with one of the students, Joseph S. T. Fall of Cobble Hill, in the audience.

"It was like reopening a chapter in your life which you'd all but forgotten," the 64-year-old dairy farmer said. He also served in the Second World War, and retired as a group captain.

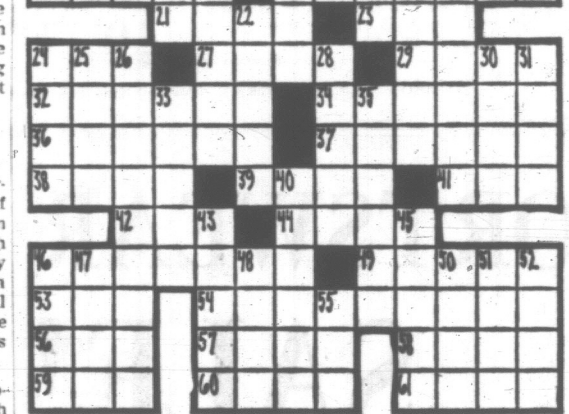

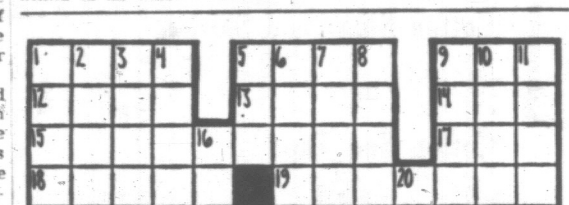

The film had been made in 1916 by Bud Dwyer, official movie cameraman with the Canadian Expeditionary Force in the first war. Now a Los Angeles building contractor, he brought the film with him on his vacation here to show before audiences of businessmen, air force veterans, and early-day pilots.

Ask Andy

HE GIVES AWAY GRAND PRIZES

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes.

The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia (Canadian edition) and of the second question, a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 15-volume set of Compton's Pictured Encyclopedia to Gretchen Kohl, aged 12, of Seattle, Wash., for her question:

What Is the Equinox?

The equinox occurs around March 21 and Sept. 23. It is a time when day and night are equal all over the world. The sun is always shining on exactly one half of our round globe, while the other half is in the darkness of night. Since the earth turns around once on its axis every 24 hours, we might expect day and night to be equal everywhere throughout the year. If the axis of the earth were at right angles to its orbit, this would be so.

But the earth's axis is tipped to its orbit at an angle of 23½ degrees. This tilted axis points to the sun with first one pole, then with the other. When midsummer comes to the northern hemisphere, the entire Arctic Circle rotates on the sunshine side of the earth. Then, north of the equator, the days are longer than the nights. Meantime, the entire Antarctic Circle remains on the night side of the earth. Then, south of the equator, the nights are longer than the days.

At the equator, day and night are always equal. North and south of the equator, the length of the days and nights varies with the seasons. The farther we are from the equator, the more extreme these conditions become until, within the polar circles, we get the long polar night alternating with weeks of the midnight sun.

Changes Completed

During the year, as the earth circles its orbit, these conditions reverse themselves. The equinoxes are halfway between the longest and the shortest days of the year. At such times, neither of the poles is tilted towards the sun and day and night are everywhere equal.

The sun, of course, does not change its position in relation to the earth. But because of the tilting, orbiting earth, it seems to do so. Through the year it appears to travel a path in the sky, a path which can be charted against the celestial sphere.

Investment In Ice Team Said Illegal

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Investment of $6,000 by the Kitchener auditorium commission in stock of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen Hockey Club was termed illegal today.

The annual financial report to city council said the investment was contrary to the Ontario Municipal Act and also the report, by city treasurer R. V. Eby and a private auditing firm, said city funds may only be invested in securities. It said the hockey stock apparently was purchased to help obtain a better contract with the hockey club.

VICTORIA B.C., THURSDAY, JULY 30, 1959 19

... HERE AND THERE ... With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Experience and health are worth far more than wealth.

This isn't a copybook jingle; it is the philosophy of 71-year-old Scott Coulson, sitting in the driver's seat of a Tally-Ho sightseeing wagon parked alongside the Inner Harbor.

Healthy, blue-eyed Mr. Coulson has been driving horses in Victoria since 1903—excepting the time he took off for the Klondike during the gold rush of 1906.

But he never got any gold. "What I did get," he says, "was a wealth of experience about life—and people in general and I have lots of pleasant memories to keep me company."

In 1910 Mr. Coulson drove a team of 32 horses, pulling a 27-ton load, from Dawson City to Bear Creek. That is an experience he still enjoys!

A colleague of mine has just received a letter from New York after a detour.

It was addressed to Victoria, British Columbia, but the U.S. post office sent it to British Guiana, where it was re-routed back here.

Not so long ago Premier Bennett returned from New York and said the big financiers there thought of British Columbia as "some far-flung colony like British Guiana" until he (Mr. Bennett) enlightened them.

Pity poor Peter Bruton, who returned to his native New Zealand after five years in Victoria!

"These . . . Socialists," he writes, "are still in power. Taxes have doubled in the past year, the cost of living is sky-high and businesses are daily being choked to death. Being now a private entrepreneur, I am one of their targets."

Peter is operating a public relations concern in Wellington; and he says the drinking laws there are even more stringent than in B.C.

"The police take a fiendish delight in raiding dances where there are bottles under the table. But at least there is no discrimination. Last week they raided the Mayor's Ball and pinched the lot."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Andre Barry Hissette, 1601 Esquimalt, was fined $50 and $3 costs in Colwood RCMP court Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being a minor in possession of beer.

Coun. George Austin will be acting reeve of Saanich for the next 10 days in the absence of Reeve George Chatterton who leaves Friday for his annual vacation and returns Aug. 10.

Motorist Elsie Mary Lachlan, 1122 Newport, was fined $250 when she pleaded guilty in Oak Bay police court today to a charge of impaired driving.

She was remanded for consideration of driver's licence suspension.

Police said the women drove into the stern of a trailer-mounted boat parked near Oak Bay Boat House launching ramp on Beach Drive.

Force of the impact drove the boat onto the roof of a truck parked ahead.

Commendations poured in on the city police department for its work during the royal visit. Letters from city council, royal tour officials, provincial officials, the army and navy, thanking the department for its efficiency were read to police commission today.

"The police really did an excellent job," chimed in Mayor Percy Scurrell. "I was very pleased with the force. There were no kicks and everything went smoothly."

A 17-year-old Saanich boy recently committed for trial in connection with a $2,000 garage burglary was sentenced in city police court today to six months definite and four months indefinite at Oakalla young offenders' unit.

Stanley John Bullivant, 3521 Douglas, pleaded guilty to two charges of obtaining goods by false pretences at Hudson's Bay Co. by charging about $15 worth of items to a phony account.

Magistrate William Ostler imposed the same sentence in each case to be served concurrently.

FORMERLY on the staff of Flag Officer, Pacific Coast, Commander Raiffe D. Barrett, 54, has been promoted to the acting rank of captain while holding the appointment of naval attaché to the Canadian ambassador to the USSR and the Canadian minister to Finland.

Riding the Victoria float in the Seattle Seafair parade Friday will be Miss Victoria, Vivi Petersen with her princesses. On her return she will prepare to leave for the Miss Canada contest Aug. 11 at Hamilton in addition to appearing at the P.N.E. Aug. 22.

A co-ordinated stand should be made by Greater Victoria councils and school board in future wage negotiations with the majority of employees on civic payrolls, Saanich Reeve George Chatterton said Wednesday.

He told intermunicipal committee he will formally move at its next meeting that a professional negotiator be hired by all four councils to deal with all civic unions except the teachers' association and possibly public health nurses.

An elderly woman pedestrian who claimed she was knocked down by a large red car at Styles and Craigflower Wednesday night, is in good condition with a knee injury at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Frank Marshall, 4025 Martha, told city police his mother, Mrs. Adelaide B. Marshall, 75, of 1230 Styles, was walking across Craigflower when the accident happened.

The car, apparently kept going.

Ancient Tradition Perpetuated Saturday At Highland Games

With a hundred pipers an' a' an' the Scots games in Macdonald Park—where else?—Saturday g' promise o' bein' unco guid.

The gathering of the clans for festive frolic is not limited to Scotsmen. You are certain of a warm welcome even if your name be MacBernstein, MacSingh, MacChan or Mac-Popoff.

These will be the 22nd annual Highland Games, sponsored by the burr-ring Victoria Highland Games Association, who lock the door on no one.

Official opening will be at 2 p.m. by Robert Strachan, leader of the Opposition in the legislature who has been referred to by colleagues as "a breeze from the Hebrides."

Origin of the games goes back at least to Robert Bruce in the 14th century. He even mentioned them in a letter to the Pope.

Origin in Victoria was about 100 years ago, though they were not held annually. Macdonald Park—in those

ONE HEAD TOO MANY ...

Freaks of nature like these three double-headed dahlias, their heads growing back to back, may be amusing to amateur gardeners but the professional has no use for them, says Times gardening expert Jack Beasly. "They seem to be on the increase and I would keep them out of sight," he declared. B.C. government horticulturist A. C. Carter hasn't noticed any unusual incidence of mutations recently, but says they are caused by sudden climatic changes or disease. Three-headed dahlias pictured here were found by 10-year-old Anne Boldt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Boldt in their garden at 402 St. Charles.—Times photo

CITY TO SELL AUTO WRECKS

City police commission today agreed to try to sell five impounded cars that have been cluttering up the city police yard for years.

All efforts to trace the owners of the cars—all wrecked in accidents—had been futile, the commission was told. A city resolution endorsing the sale will be sought as required by legislation.

Police Chief John Blackstock advised the commission to sell the cars as junk instead of holding an auction. "If we advertise them, we'll be out of pocket," he said.

Six Firms Buy Water Bombers

Six B.C. logging companies have joined forces to bring to B.C. four Martin Mars flying boats for conversion as aerial tankers to fight forest fires, with the first scheduled to arrive at Patricia Bay next week.

It was announced a week ago that MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. would buy the four big planes, now at San Francisco, and convert them to carry 7,000 gallons of water each.

Instead a new company, Forest Industries Flying Tankers Ltd., has been formed to operate them. Backing it are B.C. Forest Products Ltd., Canadian Forest Products Ltd., MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., Powell River Co. Ltd., Tahsis Co. Ltd., and Western Forest Industries Ltd.

Board of directors and operating management will be announced shortly.

STEVENSON HELPS

Analysis of the plan for use of the big—200-foot wingspan and overall length of 120 feet—planes was made under the direction of Air Vice-Marshal Leigh F. Stevenson, board chairman of Okanagan Helicopters Ltd.

Arrangements will be made for them to load with scope while taxiing on lake or sea.

Once this would give a saturation of one-third inch over one acre.

COST $500,000

The planes were built in 1945, and were property of the U.S. Navy. Total cost of the four—plus conversion, is expected to be $500,000. Replacement cost would be closer to $3 million.

They will be based permanently at Patricia Bay Airport, and each will have a crew of three.

BOOKMAKER REMANDED FOR SENTENCE

Cigar store keeper James Spencer, 1723 Denman, pleaded guilty in city police court today to a bookmaking charge laid by police after a raid on Spencer's shop Wednesday.

Spencer was charged with using premises for the purpose of recording bets. He was remanded for sentence to Friday after court was told Spencer had previous convictions, the most recent last February, when he was fined $300.

Up-Island Area Combed For 'Gunsel'

The RCMP and other police forces outside the city have been enlisted in an effort to track down a teen-aged boy who held up a downtown grocery at gunpoint Wednesday.

Possibility the youth made his escape from the city Wednesday afternoon was being considered and the search was extended up-island.

It was understood police were concerned with a particular up-island area but they said they did not wish to hamper their investigation by saying "too much."

A boy described as about 16 years old pulled a pistol from a paper bag he carried and demanded "all the money in the till" from storekeeper Mrs. Dorothy Sing, of Gordon Head Produce Co., 1126 Blanshard, at 11.15 a.m.

Mrs. Sing stepped aside, said "Help yourself," and the young gunman took approximately $20 from the cash register where she was about to make change for a $1 bill handed to her by the boy who had asked for a package of gum.

She was able to give police only a brief description and say the boy ran north on Blanshard and west on Yates after leaving the corner store at View.

The boy was described as being of stocky build, about five feet tall, with blond hair and fair complexion, wearing a shiny black windbreaker. The gun was thought to be an automatic type.

BACK FROM TOKYO TODAY

Dr. Frank T. Fahey, former Victoria Liberal MP and ex-deputy B.C. minister of education, who was consultant on an eight-week UNESCO seminar on vocational and technical education for 20 nations of South and South-East Asia, Idea behind the seminar, he said, was to expand training in these fields. He found Japan, where he visited industrial sites, "seething" with activity and said country appeared prosperous. Dr. Fahey was member of Canadian UNESCO delegation in New Delhi in 1956 and has visited Far East several times on other missions.

TOO MUCH NOISE

No-Muffler Cars to Get Close Watch

A police crackdown on mufflerless cars and trucks was promised today by Police Chief John Blackstock.

He told city police commission that he would order his department to pay "special attention" to the problem.

It came after a citizen complained his corner "is getting to be like the Indianapolis Speedway" and Mayor Percy Scurrell added that sometimes he can't hear people in his City Hall office because of noisy cars.

Chief Blackstock said that large trucks were noisy despite their mufflers because of high horsepower ratings. He also said Hollywood mufflers on cars were causing trouble because of the way some were driven.

"Apart from that," said the mayor, "it has occurred to me that there is a lot of unnecessary noise—that there can't be mufflers on some cars."

"If there has been no attention paid recently, it may be that people are getting careless."

The chief said there will be plenty of attention paid to the problem immediately.

School Musicians Perform Before Audience of 300

More than 100 boy and girl instrumentalists drawn from all Victoria school bands gave a lively public concert in Victoria High School auditorium this morning.

directed by Mrs. Dorothy Evans, orchestra teacher at Victoria High School.

Injured City Sailor Flown From Frigate to San Diego

A Victoria navy man is resting comfortably in the United States Naval Hospital at San Diego after being flown there with a fractured arm from his ship, the frigate New Glasgow.

Petty Officer Murray Mitchell, 207, Lascelles, Belmont Park, was picked up by a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter after his injuries were diagnosed as requiring hospitalization.

With the frigates Sussexvale, St. Therese, Beacon Hill, and Stettler the ship is on a naval cadet training cruise.

The ships will return to Esquimalt Aug. 10.

WHERE DID THEY COME FROM ...

Police Chief John Blackstock's monthly report to the police commission today showed startling enthusiasm by his department for finding missing people and cars, if you believe figures don't lie.

It showed that during June 41 persons were reported missing but 43 were located; 27 autos were reported stolen, but 28 were recovered.

Explanation, of course, was that the recoveries included carry-overs from the previous month.

ASK THE TIMES

Q—Can you please tell me why Saanich has painted fire hydrants green instead of the usual red? B. B.

A—Only some are green, with white caps. There are three different colors, the one mentioned, all-red, and orange with white caps. This quickly indicates to firemen the size of linking water mains. All-red hydrants are linked to 4-inch mains, orange with six-inch and green with eight inches or over. Knowledge of water main size is necessary to know amounts of water and pressure available in relation to a given emergency.

Q—My daughter (aged six) asks me where most of the ice cream is produced. M.E.

A—In West London, by the firm of T. Walls and Sons, who turn out 6,000,000 portions a day. Data on Russia, a country for ice cream, is not available.

Anyone wishing a question answered is invited to send the problem along with the Times, addressed to "Ask the Times" Editor. Questions and answers will be published daily.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums, or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or securities. These should be submitted to dealers.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Box Stops Snarled Thread; Gauge for Straight Seams

By PENNY SAVER

Summer's the time for the sewing bug. Leisurely afternoons seem just perfect for planning smart new outfits for fall, and for sewing on them. There are marvellous aids on the market now for the home seamstress to make the tiresome parts of sewing easier.

One perfect idea to solve the problem of tangled thread, for good, is a special spool box. Of transparent jewellite plastic, so you can see what's inside, it will hold, neatly, up to 26 spools.

Wonder is that you don't even have to open the lid to get a length of thread you want. Each spool is on a plastic spike, thread leads out to one of 26 special holes along edge of box. Pull out desired length, then cut it off on sharp edge of tiny opening that thread comes through. Inside are compartments for thimble, buttons, needles and pins. Plush pin cushion is built right into inside tray, too.

Price of spool box is $1.39.

There's also a gauge available that will make sewing a fine and STRAIGHT seam easy every time. This gauge fastens onto machine, under needle, guides material so your seam will be straight and at an even width at all points from the edge of material. Perfect for pleats, hems, darts, and you can set it at any width up to two and a half inches. Price is 98 cents.

TEST TUBE LINE

PARIS (AP)—A daytime silhouette that looks like a test tube and a night-time form resembling a goblet are Jacques Heim's new contributions to fashion.

Heim's skirts are only slightly longer, 16 or 17 inches from the floor. Women are supposed to be able to cross their knees without showing them.

In a "let's be sophisticated" mood, Heim shows ankle-length dresses which, as he says, "fit like a stocking." Others, called "easy exit" dresses, have something in common with a revolving door—their drapery curves round and round.

LOUISE DAVIS

ON ETIQUETTE

Who chooses best man? When the bride and groom each have a brother, who has the preference of being best man? Who picks the other male attendants?

Louise Davis answers: The bridegroom chooses his own best man. There is no priority as to who is chosen. It can be his own brother, his father, uncle, any other relative, his best friend or the bride's brother, if they are close friends. As ushers are part of the bride's "entourage," she and her family theoretically do the choosing. However, the bride and her fiancé usually get together to select the ushers, who are often the bridegroom's "buddies."

Children trooping into the house during summer play are annoying. Especially when they track in dirt or drip water from the wading pool. Ease your cleaning problems by fixing an entrance where players can brush off the topsoil, change their wet suits and be near the snacks.

DEAR ABBY: Our mother is 72 and has been a widow for eight years. Every year we have the same trouble with her. She likes to have a big party to celebrate her wedding anniversary. How can we tell her that after a husband passes away, his widow should not celebrate her wedding anniversary? Or are we wrong in trying to discourage such an event? She expects gifts, too.

THE CHILDREN
DEAR CHILDREN: You are not wrong. Perhaps she wants a "celebration" to ward off the "blues" on this particular date. Compromise by having a "family dinner." But tell her that anniversary gifts are discontinued after one of the parties is deceased.

What's your problem? For a personal reply, write to ABBY in care of this newspaper. Enclose a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

Cauliflower and Capers — The perfect sauce for cooked cauliflower is a lemon butter sauce to which whole capers, salt, black pepper and a touch of garlic powder have been added.

DEAR PONDERING: May I borrow a phrase from a very good Book? "Do unto others..."

DEAR ABBY: I know you are going to think I am terrible but I need help so I will have to tell you the truth. I am a 16-year-old girl who is considered very popular. I have gone steady several times but not for very long because I lose interest in the boy as soon as I know I've got him.

I get to know boys very fast. I mean on the first date I make out like mad with them. I don't let them go too far, Abby. I give you my word. My girl friends have told me that my reputation is getting very bad. My own brother told me this, also.

How can I refuse to make out with boys that I have already made out with? I don't want to lose my popularity. Please don't throw this letter away thinking it is too silly to answer. MUST KNOW

DEAR MUST: It is always the girl who sets the pace on a date. It's up to you to make it clear that you have "reformed." When a boy makes advances, restate the fact. And keep repeating it. You lose your popularity because you refuse to make out—you are popular with the wrong boys.

DEAR ABBY: I knew a sweet little auburn-haired girl fifty-three years ago, but she married someone else and so did I. I lost my wife six years ago. I read in the obituaries recently that this woman had lost her husband. I wrote her a letter and asked if she would like to see me again. We met. She gave me three beautiful kisses and said she thought I could replace her husband.

Now for my problem. I saw a doctor eight years ago because I lost all desire for romance. I was only 64 then. The doctor said he was only 62 and he'd lost his, too, and nothing could be done about it. Would it be fair to marry this lady without telling her about it? She is young yet. Only 64. PONDERING very good Book? "Do unto others..."

DEAR ABBY: I know you are going to think I am terrible but I need help so I will have to tell you the truth. I am a 16-year-old girl who is considered very popular. I have gone steady several times but not for very long because I lose interest in the boy as soon as I know I've got him.

B.C. Union Fined $10,000

—Barron, Victoria Daily Times.

3 Ironworkers In Contempt Too, Must Pay $3,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — Three union officials were each fined $3,000 and Local 97 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers (CLC) was fined $10,000 for contempt of court in the British Columbia Supreme Court today.

Mr. Justice A. M. Manson handed down fines of $3,000 to Fernand Leopold Whitmore, president of the union, and business agents Norman Eddison and Tom McGrath.

The judge ordered one year's imprisonment for each of the three men in default of payment.

The three men were summoned last week to show cause why they should not be cited for contempt after ironworkers failed to obey a court injunction ordering them to return to work on Vancouver's $23,000,000 Second Narrows Bridge.

Mr. Justice Manson ordered the fines paid in court despite an application by defence counsel E. L. Burgess to have them deferred until an appeal is launched.

The judge gave his decision after reading a 37-page judgment to a hushed courtroom.

"The union, by its officials, made no honest effort to honor the court order instructing the workmen to return to work," he said.

The union officials were ordered held in sheriff's custody until the fines have been paid. Defence counsel indicated this would be done later today.

Slight murmurs were heard from the packed public gallery when Mr. Justice Manson read his decision.

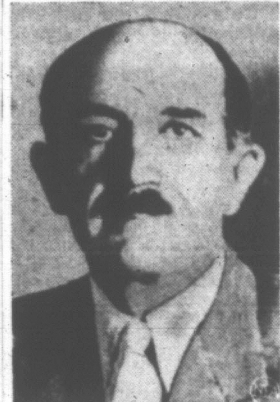

In his written judgment, the justice said certain press releases issued by Eddison were "made to deter workmen from returning to work."

The union "did nothing to explain the situation to the workmen" and a press release issued June 22 by Eddison was "highly inflammatory" because it was "mischievous."

Mr. Justice Manson said he did not take into consideration a poison-pen letter received last Saturday which threatened him with death if he found the men guilty of contempt. Contents of the letter were not released.

Mr. Manson today said it was not good practice to go out on strike and leave temporary falsework which could become dangerous. If the union contract did not include such a clause, then it was only "common sense" that work should have continued until it was safe to leave the unfinished bridge.

CYPRUS TRUCE BROKEN BY TERRORIST CHIEF

... a conspiracy

ATHENS (AP)—The agreement ending four years of bloody unrest on Cyprus was repudiated Wednesday by Lt. Gen. George Grivas, leader of the underground war against British rule of the Mediterranean island.

Grivas said in a statement to reporters that "some quarters" are again trying to subjugate the island and that he wanted to warn the Cypriot people against a conspiracy plotted against them by "collaborators of the British and the Turks."

LOG STRIKE STALEMATE

Both Sides Hit Bennett Plan

Premier Bennett's suggestion Wednesday that a 10 to 12-cent hourly pay increase "would be fair" for B.C.'s striking coast loggers got only a cool reception with their leader, Joe Morris, today.

It was also frowned on by management.

Mr. Morris told The Times:

"There are other things beside wages we must bear in mind, the determination of which may affect the pay issue."

"We are prepared to go to the bargaining table any time there is a possibility of resolving this dispute, but we are not prepared to go to the bargaining table to talk about a pre-determined area of settlement."

Premier Bennett told a press conference in Vancouver that an increase of between 10 and 12 cents an hour for the loggers in a one-year contract "would be fair."

(The woodworkers originally asked for another 34 cents an hour, then reduced the demand to 21 cents.)

Goes Against Conciliation Award

The lumber companies offered another 12 cents, but over two years.

This offer Mr. Bennett described as "not enough," adding that the union's demands, too, were "unrealistic."

John Billings, president of Forest Industrial Relations, representing the 127 affected companies, said the premier's statement was "in striking contrast" to the report of a provincial conciliation board.

He said a conciliation board spent 10 days of study before issuing a majority recommendation for a 12-cent hourly boost over two years. The companies accepted the report, the union rejected it.

Mr. Billings added, "We are hesitant to accept replies made under pressure of newspaper interviews as being the considered policy of the government."

Meanwhile, it was learned that the strike vote among members of the International Woodworkers of America in June cost taxpayers $13,500.

The provincial cabinet passed an order-in-council authorizing a special warrant to pay the money.

The strike went into its 24th day today, with an estimated loss so far of nearly $50,000. No talks between the two sides are in sight or contemplated, officials said.

Britain 'Concerned' Over Strife in Laos

LONDON (Reuters)—Britain today announced she has received reports that fighting has broken out between government and Communist forces in Laos.

A foreign office spokesman said Britain is "deeply concerned" about the situation in the Indo-Chinese state. He could give no estimates on the extent of the fighting.

commission on grounds the danger of a major conflict in Laos is a threat to peace.

CRACK TRAIN DERAILED

HUDSON, Wis. (AP)—The Chicago and North Western Railroad's crack "400" passenger train southbound from the twin cities was reported derailed this afternoon near Wilson Hill in St. Croix County.

The sheriff's office broadcast an appeal to surrounding counties for "all available ambulances."

but as time went by her anxiety grew.

Police began an investigation. It's still going on.

Malarkoff had been working at Ellison and Kalodinin and Zarubin at Glenmore. Both are tree fruit areas to the north of Kelowna. They were snowbound at the time of the disappearance.

The first problem was that of the car. Police knew that while it might be fairly easy to hide away bodies indefinitely, disposal of a car wasn't a simple matter. But it has never been found.

Duck Lake and Woods Lake, on Highway 97 just north of Kelowna, were searched in the belief that Malarkoff may have driven off the highway.

But both were frozen and it was obvious no car had gone into either lake.

An intensive search for the men and the car went on over the years.

Some policemen involved in the investigation say it is noticeable that the Sons of Freedom never speak of the disappearance.

One theory is that the men were killed and the car blown to pieces in an explosion. In the past, Freedomites have been blamed for a number of explosions caused by homemade bombs in the Okanagan and Kootenay areas.

Another is that the men were murdered and the car hidden.

The mystery remains as great as ever.

DEADLOCK UNBROKEN AT GENEVA

GENEVA (UPI) — The Big Four foreign ministers met for nearly four hours over lunch today but remained as deadlocked as ever on the Berlin issue, just a week before the scheduled windup of their talks.

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko lunched with France's Maurice Couve de Murville and Britain's Selwyn Lloyd at U.S. Secretary of State Christian Herter's villa.

Afterwards, assistant secretary of state Andrew H. Berling announced that "the same differences on principle still exist."

Federal By-Votes Set Oct. 2

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker today announced that two federal byelections will be held Monday, Oct. 5.

Votes will be held in the Ontario constituencies of Russell and Hastings-Prontenac.

Hastings-Prontenac has been vacant since the sudden death March 17 of former external affairs minister Sidney Smith.

Liberal J. Omer Gaur, who died in the Parliament Building March 4, was the member for Russell.

There are no other vacancies at present in the 265-seat Commons, which now has 207 Progressive Conservative members, 48 Liberals and eight CCF members.

Nehru Ousts Reds

PRAYER FOR TODAY

Our Father in heaven, during these summer days we see Thy glory everywhere. The roses in our flower bed, the shade tree by the side of the road, the corn stalks in the field, the bluebird on the wing, the babbling brook in the meadow, the cows on the hillside, all speak of Thy power and glory; for Thou hast created them all. Help us to live this day that we too may reflect Thy glory; in Jesus' name. Amen.

ISSUES TOO COMPLEX

'NOW IS TIME FOR SUMMIT'

MOSCOW (UPI) — Premier Nikita Khrushchev said Wednesday night that "the time has come" for the Big Four to hold a summit meeting.

The official Tass agency, reporting a speech made by Khrushchev in Dnepropetrovsk, quoted him as saying that the foreign ministers in Geneva "are coming up against big difficulties because they have to deal with complex unsettled international issues."

There were also "peaceful references" to a Berlin settlement scattered throughout the speech. At one point he said: "Neither the Soviet Union nor the Western powers wish to upset the present way of life of the people of West Berlin. If the people of West Berlin wish to live under capitalism let them. It is their own domestic matter. We do not intend to interfere."

He did not comment directly on the impending break-up of the deadlocked Geneva talks.

"These questions are more amenable to discussion, and especially to solution, by the heads of government, because the heads of government have vast experience of settling international problems," Khrushchev said.

Cheers for Nixon Along Every Mile

SVERDLOVSK, Soviet Union (AP) — U.S. Vice-President Nixon motored deep into the semi-secret Ural Mountain mining area today and received cheers every mile of the way.

Speaking to officials of a copper mine he visited during the forenoon, Nixon came out with a strong indication that he favors either a quick meeting of President Eisenhower and Premier Khrushchev or a quick agreement at Geneva which would permit a summit conference.

"I do not pretend that personal contact would solve the basic problems of the world," he said and added briefly later:

"This trip of mine will be followed by others including contact between other leaders."

chev said. "They also have wider powers."

"It seems to us that the time has come for the heads of government to tackle this difficult job. Let the ministers exert fresh efforts to find mutually acceptable solutions and reach agreement on what they can agree upon."

"The other, most difficult matters, matters of principle, will be considered by the heads of government."

Khrushchev also revealed some details of his private talks six days ago with Vice-President Richard M. Nixon. He said Russia wants a Berlin settlement to avert the danger of a war which he said West Germany might start.

"I frankly and bluntly expressed our views on all these matters to Mr. Nixon," Khrushchev said.

"I also told him that, if the West German militarists started a war, our retaliatory blows will in a few hours wipe out West Germany and the other countries where there are military bases spearheaded against the Soviet Union."

Cheers for Nixon Along Every Mile

Herbert Klein, Nixon's press spokesman, said he believes Nixon referred to the hope that a way would be found for a summit conference. But the drift among Nixon's followers seemed to be towards recommending a visit by Khrushchev at a suitable time.

It was Nixon's next to last day in this Siberian industrial complex of 600,000 and perhaps the one in which he received the warmest welcome.

B.C. Woman, Daughter Found Slain

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—Police said today a mother and her eight-year-old daughter were clubbed to death in their home at Park Sliding about 20 miles from here Wednesday night.

Police are seeking a former Prince George man who worked on the farm of Andrew Townsend whose wife, Violet Doris, and daughter, Lynda, were killed sometime during the night.

The bodies were discovered by three children, two of them Townsend children, this morning.

Queen Goes Down on Farm

CHARLOTTETOWN, P.E.I. (UPI)—Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip today went down to the farm and then to the races—both for the second time on their soon-to-end Canadian tour.

Philip wound up the trip to Willard Prowse's 100-acre mixed farm at Brackley, near here, by leaving the rest of the royal party and going off with a small boy to see his coin collection.

Later they went to the sulky races, a major sport on Prince Edward Island.

Seems them iron workers bin showin' their mettle.

Fishermen's strike c'd result in a net loss.

Mister Bennett may not really git th' provincial geit burnt, but he hopes it'll be charred beyond recognition.

Fishing Strike Said 'Guaranteed'

Current stoppage of work in B.C.'s huge fishing industry was "guaranteed" by fish union leader Homer Stevens last February, the president of B.C. Fisheries Association has charged.

James Sinclair, in a radio address said Stevens told him in February that unless the association met all the union demands, a strike would follow.

"At a later meeting, well before the government-supervised strike votes had been taken, he boasted to us, 'I can guarantee a strike.'"

"Of course, he needed the formality of a strike vote, but that was no problem to a man skilled in Communist Party organization and propaganda."

STRIKERS "SHOCKED"

Sinclair said fishermen, tendermen and shoreworkers today were "shocked and bewildered to find themselves on strike, even though they actually voted for one."

"The reason is that their shop stewards had told them to vote for a strike but at the same time had privately assured them the strike really couldn't happen."

"A strong strike vote would strengthen the union leaders' position and when faced with the threat of a strike the companies would cave in and grant all the union demands—that's what the shop stewards said."

The fisheries association chief said Stevens, president of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, and other union leaders "made up their minds four months ago that they wanted a strike."

"We watched week by week their tactics which made a strike inevitable. We knew that no matter what we offered, Stevens would find some excuse to pull a strike."

CALLING IN SHIPS

Sinclair said strikers, now "sitting at home grumbling or meekly taking turns on picket lines," should demand union meetings to "discuss the real issue of the strike."

Today Sinclair told the Times the association was "calling all our big ships in and storing nets away for the winter."

MISSING FREEDOMITE RIDDLE: BOMB VICTIMS, OR SLAIN?

NELSON, B.C. (CP)—Police files in the mysterious disappearance of three Sons of Freedom Doukhobor men more than five years ago have been opened to the public for the first time.

Lawrence Malarkoff, 32, Alex Kalodinin, 36, and Peter Zarubin, 19, all of the Doukhobor settlement of Krestova, 20 miles from here, dropped out of sight near the Okanagan city of Kelowna the morning of Feb. 4, 1954. They haven't been seen since.

Inspector E. S. W. Batty, head of the RCMP detachment here, admits he is baffled.

Malarkoff's disappearance was first reported to police by his wife Mary after he had been missing for a week. She was not particularly worried—but as time went by her anxiety grew.

Police began an investigation. It's still going on.

Malarkoff had been working at Ellison and Kalodinin and Zarubin at Glenmore. Both are tree fruit areas to the north of Kelowna. They were snowbound at the time of the disappearance.

VICTORIA B.C., THURSDAY, JULY 30, 1959 19

... HERE AND THERE ... With NORMAN CRIBBENS

Experience and health are worth far more than wealth.

This isn't a copybook jingle; it is the philosophy of 71-year-old Scott Coulson, sitting in the driver's seat of a Tally-Ho sightseeing wagon parked alongside the Inner Harbor.

Healthy, blue-eyed Mr. Coulson has been driving horses in Victoria since 1903—excepting the time he took off for the Klondike during the gold rush of 1906.

But he never got any gold.

"What I did get," he says, "was a wealth of experience about life—and people in general and I have lots of pleasant memories to keep me company."

In 1910 Mr. Coulson drove a team of 32 horses, pulling a 27-ton load, from Dawson City to Bear Creek. That is an experience he still enjoys!

A colleague of mine has just received a letter from New York via East Africa.

It was addressed to Victoria, British Columbia, but the U.S. post office sent it to British Guiana, where it was re-routed back here.

Not so long ago Premier Bennett returned from New York and said the big financiers there thought of British Columbia as "some far-flung colony like British Guiana" until he (Mr. Bennett) enlightened them.

Pity poor Peter Bruton, who returned to his native New Zealand after five years in Victoria!

"These . . . Socialists," he writes, "are still in power. Taxes have doubled in the past year, the cost of living is sky-high and businesses are daily being choked to death. Being now a private enterprise, I am one of their targets."

Peter is operating a public relations concern in Wellington; and he says the drinking laws there are even more stringent than in B.C.

"The police take a fiendish delight in raiding dances where there are bottles under the table. But at least there is no discrimination. Last week they raided the Mayor's Ball and pinched the lot."

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Andre Barry Hisette, 1601 Esquimalt, was fined $50 and $3 costs in Colwood RCMP court Wednesday when he pleaded guilty to a charge of being a minor in possession of beer.

Coun. George Austin will be acting reeve of Saanich for the next 10 days in the absence of Reeve George Chatterton who leaves Friday for his annual vacation and returns Aug. 10.

Motorist Elsie Mary Lachlan, 1122 Newport, was fined $250 when she pleaded guilty in Oak Bay police court today to a charge of impaired driving.

She was remanded for consideration of driver's licence suspension.

Police said the women drove into the stern of a trailer-mounted boat parked near Oak Bay Boat House launching ramp on Beach Drive.

Force of the impact drove the boat onto the roof of a truck parked ahead.

Commendations poured in on the city police department for its work during the royal visit. Letters from city council, royal tour officials, provincial officials, the army and navy, thanking the department for its efficiency were read to police commission today.

"The police really did an excellent job," chimed in Mayor Percy Scurrell. "I was very pleased with the force. There were no kicks and everything went smoothly."

A 17-year-old Saanich boy recently committed for trial in connection with a $2,000 garage burglary was sentenced in city police court today to six months definite and four months indeterminate at Oakalla young offenders' unit.

Stanley John Bullivant, 3521 Douglas, pleaded guilty to two charges of obtaining goods by false pretences at Hudson's Bay Co. by charging about $15 worth of items to a phony account.

Magistrate William Ostler imposed the same sentence in each case, to be served concurrently.

FORMERLY on the staff of Flag Officer, Pacific Coast, Commander Raiffe D. Barrett, 54, has been promoted to the acting rank of captain while holding the appointment of naval attaché to the Canadian ambassador to the USSR and the Canadian minister to Finland.

He told intermunicipal committee he will formally move at its next meeting that a professional negotiator be hired by all four councils to deal with all civic unions except the teachers' association and possibly public health nurses.

An elderly woman pedestrian who claimed she was knocked down by a large red car at Styles and Craigflower Wednesday night, is in good condition with a knee injury at St. Joseph's Hospital.

Ancient Tradition Perpetuated Saturday At Highland Games

By TONY DICKSON

With a hundred pipers an' a' an' a' the Scots' games in Macdonald Park—where's else?—Saturday g' promise o' bein' unco good.

The gathering of the clans for festive frolic is not limited to Scotsmen. You are certain of a warm wee welcome even if your name be MacBernstein, MacSingh, MacChan or Mac-Popoff.

These will be the 22nd annual Highland Games, sponsored by the burr-ring Victoria Highland Games Association, who lock the door on no one.

Official opening will be at 2 p.m. by Robert Strachan, leader of the Opposition in the legislature who has been referred to by colleagues as "a breeze from the Hebrides."

Origin of the games goes back at least to Robert Bruce in the 14th century. He even mentioned them in a letter to the Pope.

Origin in Victoria was about 100 years ago, though they were not held annually. Macdonald Park in those

ONE HEAD TOO MANY . . .

Freaks of nature like these three double-headed dahlias, their heads growing back to back, may be amusing to amateur gardeners but the professional has no use for them, says Times gardening expert Jack Beasly. "They seem to be on the increase and I would keep them out of sight," he declared. B.C. government horticulturalist A. C. Carter hasn't noticed any unusual incidence of mutations recently, but says they are caused by sudden climatic changes or disease. Three-headed dahlias pictured here were found by 10-year-old Anne Boldt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Boldt in their garden at 402 St. Charles.—Times photo

CITY TO SELL AUTO WRECKS

City police commission today agreed to try to sell five impounded cars that have been cluttering up the city police yard for years.

All efforts to trace the owners of the cars—all wrecked in accidents—had been futile, the commission was told. A city resolution endorsing the sale will be sought as required by legislation.

Police Chief John Blackstock advised the commission to sell the cars as junk instead of holding an auction. "If we advertise them, we'll be out of pocket," he said.

Six Firms Buy Water Bombers

Six B.C. logging companies have joined forces to bring to B.C. four Martin Mars flying boats for conversion as aerial tankers to fight forest fires, with the first scheduled to arrive at Patricia Bay next week.

It was announced a week ago that MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd. would buy the four big planes, now at San Francisco, and convert them to carry 7,000 gallons of water each.

Instead a new company, Forest Industries Flying Tankers Ltd., has been formed to operate them. Backing it are B.C. Forest Products Ltd., Canadian Forest Products Ltd., MacMillan and Bloedel Ltd., Powell River Co. Ltd., Tahsis Co. Ltd., and Western Forest Industries Ltd.

Board of directors and operating management will be announced shortly.

STEVENSON HELPS

Analysis of the plan for use of the big 200-foot wingspan and overall length of 120 feet—planes was made under the direction of Air Vice-Marshal Leigh F. Stevenson, board chairman of Okanagan Helicopters Ltd.

Arrangements will be made for them to load with scoops while taxiing on lake or sea, and to drop them load all at once. This would give a saturation of one-third inch over one acre.

The planes were built in 1945, and were property of the U.S. Navy. Total cost of the four, plus conversion, is expected to be $500,000. Replacement cost would be closer to $3 million.

They will be based permanently at Patricia Bay Airport, and each will have a crew of three.

BOOKMAKER REMANDED FOR SENTENCE

Cigar store keeper James Spencer, 1723 Denman, pleaded guilty in city police court today to a bookmaking charge laid by police after a raid on Spencer's shop Wednesday. Spencer was charged with using premises for the purpose of recording bets. He was remanded for sentence to Friday after court was told Spencer had previous convictions, the most recent last February, when he was fined $300.

Huge Fortune Deposited As Sale Delayed

About 20 representatives of North American Oil Companies arrived at the offices of the B.C. Mines department today only to find a proposed auction of northern crown oil lands has been postponed.

A number of cheques and tenders were deposited with the department. Some oil company officials estimated their value at close to $50,000,000.

Mines Minister Kiernan said the postponement until Aug. 14 was due to a statutory problem and it was ordered to avoid any question of title.

The sale will be one of the largest in the history of the province. Total of 45 parcels of lands in northern B.C. will be put on the block. Bidding is expected to be lively due to recently announced plans for construction of a pipeline from the northern oil fields to connect with other transportation systems to the coast.

Police Crash Helmets Stir Ire of Mayor

Mayor Percy Scurrell today said "something definitely will be done" to the white crash helmets worn by city motorcycle police.

At a police commission hearing, the mayor pulled at both ends of a helmet's chinstrap six times. Each time the single button snap jerked open. "That's not good enough," the mayor told Police Chief John Blackstock.

The chief said he had a suggestion on what changes should be made but he would not reveal it during the open meeting.

He also told the mayor that the helmet worn by Const. Earle Doyle, killed in an accident when his helmet flew off, "was much stiffer" than the one tested by Mayor Scurrell.

THE BEST YET

He said the helmets used here were the best available and widely used by motorcyclists across North America.

Police commission was told that several motorcycle constables had found the chinstraps uncomfortable and had left them unbuttoned during the first few days after they were introduced here.

Const. Doyle was among a group that was warned by the chief to keep the straps buttoned. The warning was made two days before the fatal accident.

The commission voted to pay one month's salary to the widow as required by the union agreement.

Fleet Trips To Be Tried

A fleet of eight or nine power and sailboats skippered by members of the Royal Victoria Yacht Club will make the first of a series of long-range cruises up the B.C. coast starting Saturday.

The first is a two-week let, about 100 miles north of Vancouver, with stops at Sidney Spit, Clam Bay, Telegraph Harbor, Silva Bay and Pender Harbor.

Up-Island Area Combed For 'Gunsel'

The RCMP and other police forces outside the city have been enlisted in an effort to track down a teen-aged boy who held up a downtown grocery at gunpoint Wednesday.

Possibility the youth made his escape from the city Wednesday afternoon was being considered and the search was extended up-Island.

It was understood police were concerned with a particular up-Island area but they said they did not wish to hamper their investigation by saying "too much."

A boy described as about 16 years old pulled a pistol from a paper bag he carried and demanded "all the money in the till" from a storekeeper Mrs. Dorothy Sing, of Gordon Head Produce Co., 1126 Blanshard, at 11.15 a.m.

Mrs. Sing stepped aside, said "Help yourself," and the young gunman took approximately $20 from the cash register where she was about to make change for a $1 bill handed to her by the boy who had asked for a package of gum.

She was able to give police only a brief description and say the boy ran north on Blanshard and west on Yates after leaving the corner store at View.

The boy was described as being of stocky build, about five feet tall, with blond hair and fair complexion, wearing a shiny black windbreaker. The gun was thought to be an automatic type.

TOO MUCH NOISE

No-Muffler Cars to Get Close Watch

A police crackdown on mufflerless cars and trucks was promised today by Police Chief John Blackstock.

He told city police commission that he would order his department to pay "special attention" to the problem.

It came after a citizen complained his corner "is getting to be like the Indianapolis Speedway" and Mayor Percy Scurrell added that sometimes he can't hear people in his City Hall office because of noisy cars.

Chief Blackstock said that large trucks were noisy despite their mufflers because of high horsepower ratings. He also said Hollywood mufflers on cars were causing trouble because of the way some were driven.

"Apart from that," said the mayor, "it has occurred to me that there is a lot of unnecessary noise—that there can't be mufflers on some cars."

"If there has been no attention paid recently, it may be that people are getting careless."

The chief said there will be plenty of attention paid to the problem immediately.

School Musicians Perform Before Audience of 300

More than 100 boy and girl instrumentalists drawn from all Victoria school bands gave a lively public concert in Victoria High School auditorium this morning.

Some 300 parents, relatives and friends attended.

The full-range ensemble, comprising instrumentalists from Grades 3 to 12, was conducted by Mrs. Dorothy Evans, orchestra teacher at Victoria High School.

The concert concluded this summer's band and instrumental classes operated by Greater Victoria School Board under the general supervision of Harry Bigsby.

Injured City Sailor Flown From Frigate to San Diego

A Victoria navy man is resting comfortably in the United States Naval Hospital at San Diego after being flown there with a fractured arm from his ship, the frigate New Glasgow.

Petty Officer Murray Mitchell, 207 Lascelles, Belmont Park, was picked up by a U.S. Coast Guard helicopter after his injuries were diagnosed as requiring hospitalization.

Naval authorities here were unable to say how the accident occurred except that it happened in the course of normal shipboard routine. With the frigates Sussexvale, St. Therese, Beacon Hill, and Stettler the ship is on a naval cadet training cruise. The ships will return to Esquimalt Aug. 10.

WHERE DID THEY COME FROM . . .

Police Chief John Blackstock's monthly report to the police commission today showed startling enthusiasm by his department for finding missing people and cars. If you believe figures don't lie.

Is showed that during June 41 persons were reported missing but 43 were located; 27 autos were reported stolen, but 28 were recovered.

Explanation, of course, was that the recoveries included carry-overs from the previous month.

ASK THE TIMES

Q—Can you please tell me why Saanich has painted fire hydrants green instead of the usual red? B. B.

A—Only some are green, with white caps. There are three different colors, the one mentioned, all-red, and orange with white caps. This quickly indicates to firemen the size of linking water mains. All-red hydrants are linked to 4-inch mains, orange with six-inch and green with eight inches or over. Knowledge of water main size is necessary to know amounts of water and pressure available in relation to a given emergency.

Q—My daughter (aged six) asks me where most of the ice cream is produced. M.E.

A—In West London, by the firm of T. Walls and Sons, who turn out 6,000,000 portions a day. Bona Ice Cream, a country loving ice cream, is not available.

LOG STRIKE STALEMATE

Both Sides Hit
Bennett Plan

Premier Bennett's suggestion Wednesday that a 10 to 12-cent hourly pay increase "would be fair" for B.C.'s striking coast loggers got only a cool reception with their leader, Joe Morris, today.

It was also frowned on by management.

Mr. Morris told The Times:

"There are other things beside wages we must bear in mind, the determination of which may affect the pay issue."

"We are prepared to go to the bargaining table any time there is a possibility of resolving this dispute, but we are not prepared to go to the bargaining table to talk about a pre-determined area of settlement."

Premier Bennett told a press conference in Vancouver that an increase of between 10 and 12 cents an hour for the loggers in a one-year contract "would be fair."

"The woodworkers originally asked for another 34 cents an hour, then reduced the demand to 21 cents."

Goes Against Conciliation Award

The lumber companies offered another 12 cents, but over two years.

This offer Mr. Bennett described as "not enough," adding that the union's demands, too, were "unrealistic."

John Billings, president of Forest Industrial Relations, representing the 127 affected companies, said the premier's statement was "in striking contrast" to the report of a provincial conciliation board.

He said a conciliation board spent 10 days of study before issuing a majority recommendation for a 12-cent hourly boost over two years. The companies accepted the report, the union rejected it.

Meanwhile, it was learned that the strike vote among members of the International Woodworkers of America in June cost taxpayers $13,500.

The provincial cabinet passed an order-in-council authorizing a special warrant to pay the money.

The strike went into its 24th day today, with an estimated loss so far of nearly $50,000. No talks between the two sides are in sight or contemplated, officials said.

ISSUES TOO COMPLEX

'NOW IS TIME FOR SUMMIT'

MOSCOW (UPI)—Premier Nikita Khrushchev said Wednesday night that "the time has come" for the Big Four to hold a summit meeting.

The official Tass agency, reporting a speech made by Khrushchev in Dnepropetrovsk, quoted him as saying that the foreign ministers in Geneva "are coming up against big difficulties because they have to deal with complex unsettled international issues."

There were also peaceful references to a Berlin settlement scattered throughout the speech. At one point he said: "Neither the Soviet Union nor the Western powers wish to upset the present way of life of the people of West Berlin. If the people of West Berlin wish to live under capitalism, let them. It is their own domestic matter. We do not intend to interfere."

He did not comment directly on the impending breakup of the deadlocked Geneva will be considered by the heads of government."

Khrushchev also revealed some details of his private talks six days ago with Vice-President Richard M. Nixon.

He said Russia wants a Berlin settlement to avert the danger of a war which he said West Germany might start.

"I also told him that, if the West German militarists started a war, our retaliatory blows will in a few hours wipe out West Germany and the other countries where there are military bases spearheaded against the Soviet Union."

Later they went to the sulky races, a major sport on Prince Edward Island.

Three Officials
Of Ironworkers
Must Pay $3,000

VANCOUVER (CP)—Three union officials were each fined $3,000 and Local 97 of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Ironworkers (CLC) was fined $10,000 for contempt of court in the British Columbia Supreme Court today.

Mr. Justice A. M. Manson handed down fines of $3,000 to Fernand Leopold Whitmore, president of the union, and business agents Norman Eddison and Tom McGrath.

The judge ordered one year's imprisonment for each of the three men in default of payment.

The three men were summoned last week to show cause why they should not be cited for contempt after ironworkers failed to obey a court injunction ordering them to return to work on Vancouver's $23,000,000 Second Narrows Bridge.

Mr. Justice Manson ordered the fines paid in court despite an application by defence counsel Tom Berger to have them deferred until an appeal is launched.

The judge gave his decision after reading a 37-page judgment to a hushed courtroom.

"The union, by its officials, made no honest effort to honor the court order instructing the workmen to return to work," he said.

The union officials were ordered held in sheriff's custody until the fines have been paid. Defence counsel indicated this would be done later today.

Slight murmurs were heard from the packed public gallery when Mr. Justice Manson read his decision.

In his written judgment, the justice said certain press releases issued by Eddison were "made to deter workmen from returning to work."

The union "did nothing to explain the situation to the workmen" and a press release issued June 22 by Eddison was "highly inflammatory" because it was "mischievous."

Mr. Justice Manson said he did not take into consideration a poison-pen letter received last Saturday which threatened him with death if he found the men guilty of contempt. Contents of the letter were not released.

Mr. Manson today said it was not good practice to go out on strike and leave temporary falsework which could become dangerous. If the union contract did not include such a clause, then it was only "common sense" that work should have continued until it was safe to leave the unfinished bridge.

Fishing Strike
Said 'Guaranteed'

VANCOUVER (CP)—The United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union (Ind.) today met with the Fisheries Association of B.C. in an attempt to settle the wage-price dispute that has left the coast fishing industry strikebound.

The meeting started at 3:30 p.m. The union said its central strike and policy committee asked for the meeting to present certain revised demands.

Current stoppage of work in B.C.'s huge fishing industry was "guaranteed" by fish union leader Homer Stevens last February, the president of B.C. Fisheries Association has charged.

James Sinclair in a radio address said Stevens told him in February that unless the association met all the union demands, a strike would follow.

"At a later meeting, well before the government-supervised strike votes had been taken, he boasted to us, 'I can guarantee a strike.'"

"Of course, he needed the formality of a strike vote, but that was no problem to a man skilled in Communist Party organization and propaganda."

STRIKERS "SHOCKED"

Sinclair said fishermen, tendermen and shoreworkers today were "shocked and bewildered to find themselves on strike, even though they actually voted for one."

The reason is that their shop stewards had told them to vote for a strike but at the same time had privately assured them the strike really couldn't happen.

"A strong strike vote would strengthen the union leaders' position and when faced with the threat of a strike the companies would cave in and grant all the union demands—that's what the shop stewards said."

The fisheries association chief said Stevens, president of the United Fishermen and Allied Workers' Union, and other union leaders "made up their minds four months ago that they wanted a strike."

"We watched week by week their tactics which made a strike inevitable. We knew that no matter what we offered, Stevens would find some excuse to pull a strike."

CALLING IN SHIPS

Sinclair said strikers, now "sitting at home grumbling or meekly taking turns on picket lines," should demand union meetings to "discuss the real issue of the strike."

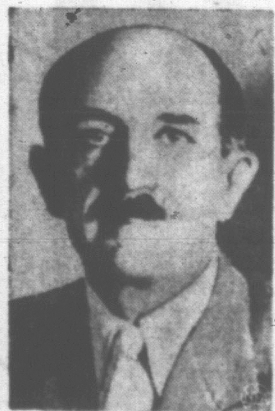

Today Sinclair told the Times the association was "calling all our big ships in and storing nets away for the winter."

"We are convinced this will be a long strike," he said. "We are certainly not budging from our position. The housewife
